Post office agreement early today

A tentative agreement reached early today calls for pay hikes for postal workers and continuation of a no-layoff contract clause.

Postage rate hikes are being predicted, possibly increasing the cost of first-class mail from ten cents to 15 cents.

The national pact averted the possibility of a work stoppage.

A deadline of midnight this morning was waived when it became apparent the negotiators were within an hour or two of successfully concluding their talks.

Weather outlook for this region

Clear to partly cloudy through Tuesday, with highs today and tomorrow in the mid to upper 80s. Low tonight in mid-60s. Wednesday through Friday highs in the low to mid 90s and lows about 70. Chance of thundershowers Friday.

Grant for school in Madison; fall special election

By WALTER F. STRANGE

Press-Record Staff Writer

A grant to Madison Community School District 12 by the state Capital Development Board (CDB) in the amount of $1,789,925 has been approved for the building of a new middle school (junior high school) which will cost $2,328,464.

The balance, $758,539, must be paid for by the Madison school district.

A tentative date to hold a bond referendum for approval of the project and a related tax levy was set for Saturday, Sept. 27, at the school board's Thursday evening meeting.

It has not been determined yet if the bond issue, if passed, will mean payment of additional taxes, or a continuation of the present tax rate. A construction bond issue passed in 1959 will be retired in the near future.

William H. Petterson, of the CDB, is serving as task force leader for the bond referendum.

William Kinder, school district attorney, was instructed to begin drafting the necessary resolutions and other legal steps related to the special election.

A special meeting of the Board of Education has been called for 7:30 p.m. Monday, July 28, to confer with the Illinois School Consulting Service and discuss formation of a citizens' advisory committee.

The location and building design have not been decided. Board members have visited several new schools similar to the one proposed in Madison, and are considering several possible locations.

According to a letter from the CDB, the board has a deadline of Oct. 31 to hold the election and have all the plans developed, or lose the state funds.

A letter from Harold E. "Gene" Briggs, superintendent of the educational service region of Madison County, to the Illinois Office of Education has requested permission for Madison to again hold multiple sessions at the Madison Junior High School for the 1975-76 school year.

It will be the fourth year Madison has had to hold split classes at the school due to overcrowding.

In Briggs' letter to Springfield, he emphasized that "a new facility is

Governor stresses slash in scheduled funds for schools

Gov. Dan Walker informed the State Board of Education today it must conform to the approved funding of the distributive aid formula in making payouts to school districts around the state. He has reduced the amounts allocated by the General Assembly.

Failure to adhere to the figures he approved would be illegal, Walker warned, and "could also lead to a chaotic situation at the end of the school year, forcing the closing of schools."

The governor made his views known in a letter to Jack Witkowski, chairman of the Board of Education.

Gov. Walker also wrote to Comptroller George Lindberg and State Treasurer Alan J. Dixon, urging them not to process payments in excess of the reduced formula.

The governor wrote the letters following reports that the Illinois Office of Education staff intends to pay school districts beyond what he considers the legal appropriation of school aid until the funds run out.

Walker asserted, "The Illinois Office of Education has no authority to determine approved appropriations or to overspend."

"Therefore, to conform to the statutes, payments for fiscal year 1976 must be 1-12 of the amount appropriated by House Bill 2871, which is $1,173,000,000. One twelfth of that is $140,760,000. At no time should payments be based on a figure higher than the amount of the approved appropriation."

"Requiring the proportionate reduction is a sound fiscal constraint intended to assure that school districts adjust their spending to available resources

Labor management committee active

Labor-management progress and preparations for an accountability meeting are among current activities of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, Executive Vice-President Edward F. Reiske reported today.

"The Executive Committee, chaired by Jack Dempsey, president, met to discuss plans for the accountability meeting to be held Aug. 20 in Madison, and work program meetings to be held the first week in September. The work program will set goals for 1975-76," Reiske noted.

The Labor-Management Committee, with John Ubaldi and Stanley Garst, co-chairmen, had as its guests Senator Sam Vadalabene and Robert Kronst, chief district engineer, State Transportation Department.

"The discussion covered appropriations for completion of FA 151 (Great River Road) from Chicago Avenue to Venice, all other highway projects in the area to be funded, and the official opening of Highway 283.

"A report given by Dr. John Manda, Granite City Steel, on environmental impacts on this area, and Carl Mathias, Metro East Industrial Development Corporation president, gave his opinions on what needs to be done to encourage new and

Rendleman is stricken

President John S. Rendleman of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville is being treated at the Jewish Hospital, St. Louis, for malignancies on both lungs, university officials said Friday.

Chief administrator of the local university since 1968 and an SIU faculty member since 1951, Dr. Rendleman, 46, entered the hospital July 15 after a month-long bronchitis attack.

Tests at the hospital Wednesday disclosed cancer, prompting arrangements for chemical therapy. Surgery has been ruled out.

He and his wife, Lenora, have five children and reside in Edwardsville. He has been active as a member of the board of directors of the First Granite City National Bank and the governing board of St. Elizabeth Hospital, Granite City.

Dr. Rendleman's regional interests have included service as an officer of the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association and as a member of a newly-formed committee studying

Record fines in antitrust case

Illinois Attorney General William J. Scott announced Friday that fines totaling $135,000—the largest ever imposed in a single criminal case under the Illinois antitrust law—have been levied against 15 contracting firms and individuals accused of price-fixing in the Springfield area.

The fines were embodied in two consent decrees approved that day by Sangamon County Circuit Judge J. J. Feuer.

The 15 defendants are "mechanical contractors," suppliers and installers of sheet metal, plumbing, heating, ventilating and air conditioning equipment and materials.

A Springfield grand jury had accused them of rigging bids and other collusive actions in providing mechanical contracting services on public and private construction projects in the Springfield area.

Scott declared that the "court victory will open the mechanical contracting market in the Springfield area to healthy competition in both public and private contracting projects."

The price-fixing conspiracy is said to have begun as early as 1966.

The defendants also were charged with inducing general contractors to reject the low mechanical bids of contractors from outside the Springfield area by threats of boycotts and by threats to cut off the supply of labor to the outside contractors, delaying and harassing Springfield-area work projects.

In the two consent decrees, the 15 defendants did not admit to violating the Illinois antitrust law but agreed to conduct their activities in the future so as to avoid the practices that originally brought them to the attention of the grand jury.

One of the two consent decrees approved called for a total fine of $85,000 levied against seven defendants: West Central Illinois Plumbing and Piping Contractors Association, Springfield; Petersburg Plumbing and Heating Co., Petersburg; Edwards Plumbing, Heating and Air Conditioning Co., Springfield; Jack Muse, Inc., Hillsboro; J. F. Weiskopf & Son, Inc., Springfield; John L. Nelson, executive secretary of West Central Illinois Plumbing and Piping Contractors Association; and Norman F. Weiskopf, president of J. F. Weiskopf & Son, Inc.

The other consent decree called for a total fine of $50,000 against the remaining defendants:

Henson Robinson Co., Metal-Air Corp., L. & L. Inc., and Springfield and Vicinity Sheet Metal Contractors Association, all of Springfield; the Fowler Co., Centralia; Charles H. Beard, president of Henson Robinson Co.; Michael J. Marada, business representative of Sheet Metal Workers International Association Local 84; and William McKenna, business representative of United Association of Plumbers, Steam and Refrigeration Fitters Local 137.

Scott said the antitrust case had been in extensive pre-trial proceedings since the original indictment, including one appeal which was won by his office.

'Kids Dog Show' here July 28

A "Kids Dog Show" for children 7 to 14 years old will be held at 1:30 p.m., Monday, July 28, at both Niedringhaus and Wilson schools.

The show is sponsored by the Granite City Park District, the National Recreation and Park Association and Ken-L-Ration Co.

Dogs in the show must be more than six months old. Pedigrees and special training are not required. Any breed of dog may be entered in the contest.

Judges will decide on a "best of show" winner and also will pick winners in the following categories: best trick dog, smallest dog, largest dog, best looking, best costumed, funniest and best-behaved. First, second and third place ribbons will be awarded in each category.

Entry blanks are available at Niedringhaus and Wilson schools.

Views burglary

A man in his 20s was seen stealing a stereo console from the home of Wayne Miller, 2345 Cardinal Ave., at 4:35 a.m. today.

A neighbor said she was awakened by a loud noise and looked out her rear window to see the man trying to move the console over the fence at the rear of Miller's home.

She said he backed an auto across the Wilson School playground to near Miller's fence. He saw her calling police and drove away, she reported.

She said the car did not have its headlights on until it entered Wilson Avenue. She described it as about a 1972 model with a loud muffler and white over a dark blue or green body.

The burglar was described as having short hair, being about 5 feet, 11 inches tall, and wearing dark pants and a light jacket with long sleeves.

One killed, 8 hurt in crash

Guadalupe Vargas, 58, of Chicago, was pronounced dead upon arrival at St. Joseph Hospital, Highland, at 11:15 a.m. Saturday of injuries sustained in an auto accident on Interstate 55 two miles south of Route 143.

She was a passenger in an auto driven by Gloria Vargas of the same address. The car ran off the highway onto the shoulder and as the driver attempted to get back on the highway, she apparently lost control and the vehicle crossed the median and overturned, throwing the victim out.

The driver and eight other passengers were injured and taken to St. Joseph Hospital.

Park budget hearing on Tuesday

A proposed May 1975-April 1976 Granite City Park District budget of $754,335 will be the subject of a public hearing at 3 p.m. tomorrow and then will be considered for adoption by the Park Board during a meeting at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Both meetings will take place at the office building in Wilson Park.

Tentative appropriations are $449,071 for park purposes, $206,136 for recreation programs and facilities, $91,135 for retirement of bond debt, $35,000 for Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund contributions, $9,000 for purchase of tort liability insurance and $2,200 for audit expenses.

Lucco on panel to study revising Ill. school laws

State Rep. Joe Lucco of Edwardsville has just been informed that he has been appointed to a subcommittee of the Elementary and Secondary Education Committee to study the Illinois School Code and suggest possible revision and recodification of the school laws.

Lucco was informed by Glenn Schneider of Naperville, chairman of the committee, that House Speaker William Edmunds has confirmed the appointment.

Members of the subcommittee are: William Marovitz (D) of Chicago, Art Berman (D) of Chicago, Charles Gaines (R) of Chicago, Don Anderson (R) of Peru and Lucco (D) of Edwardsville. The committee is intended to be representative of Chicago, its suburbs and Central and Southern Illinois.

"Hearings probably will be held in Springfield, Chicago and this area during the year. This would give school personnel the opportunity to discuss the School Code with the committee," Rep. Lucco said. "The code is an accumulation of years of school law, and this is an effort to simplify it. The committee is to report sometime next March. Lucco's background in education was a prime factor in his selection, it was explained. Lucco was presented at an award Thursday at a dinner of the statewide regional school superintendents and the office of Dr. Joseph Cronin, state superintendent of education.

The award was presented at Holiday Inn East, Springfield. It was in recognition of "outstanding work done in behalf of school boys and girls." The award is entitled "Friend of Education." Rep. Lucco was praised for sponsoring, supporting and speaking for school legislation favorable to children. He was honored during the dinner by Dr. Cronin.

'Egger' wins national honors

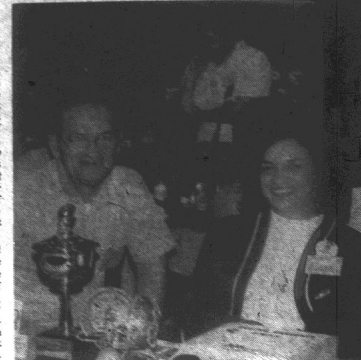

By DONNA HARTWICK
Press-Record Staff Writer
Mrs. Linda (Markuly) Sailyvas, formerly of Granite City, widely known as an accomplished and talented artist for her exclusive designs in jeweled eggshells, was the recipient of the coveted first place award in the fancy cut category at a national show of "egggers" held in Dallas, Tex. She has been commissioned to create collectors' masterpieces for such notables as Cardinal Cooke of New York, Eleanor Searle Whitney (former wife of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney) and Mrs. George Lee Sargeant of Boston.

Mrs. Sailyvas won the award for a Risen Egg figurine in the motif of a Gothic cathedral. She also received the top "best of show" award for an ostrich egg, entitled "In A Persian Garden." The "best of show" egg included painted panels which dropped to reveal peacock feathers and gold filigree insets. The center part, when open, showed a peacock egg with a cut door that revolved to display a handmade metal peacock, jeweled with tiny opals and emeralds.

A total of 105 entries was judged in 12 categories by Mrs. Gene Clockman, national judge for the Decoupage Guild, and Mrs. Elizabeth Peabody, director of the Women's Division of the State Fair of Texas.

Artists from 30 states, including Alaska, California, New York and Florida, were entered in the show.

Mrs. Sailyvas has been engaged in decorating eggs for many years, giving them to friends and relatives as gifts until three years ago. While in New York City, she began "egg-ing" on a grand scale. Her craft has developed to the extent that she has written a book on the subject, entitled "The Jeweled Eggs," which will be published within the next six months. She also has developed a special hardener-finish product, which is now on the market. Articles she has written were published in the national craft magazines, "Artisan Crafts" in April and in "Creative Crafts" last month.

Most of Mrs. Sailyvas's hand painted eggs are priced at $70 and up. Primarily she uses silver and gold-plated findings and bases, most of which she had designed herself. Precious or semi-precious stones are often incorporated inside the eggs, such as the mushroom egg which features a hand-cut tiger eye mushroom inside, surrounded by cultured pearl flowers, hand-cut mother of pearl leaves and gold plated metal parts.

Mrs. Sailyvas was accompanied by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pando Markuly, 2422 Benton St., to the national show. She is the wife of Army Chaplain John A. Sailyvas and they now reside at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

The former resident received a B.A. degree in art from Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo., and her master's degree from George Peabody College in Nashville. She taught art for seven years in Omaha, Neb., Granite City and schools in St. Louis.

Rollettes honor Mrs. Wilson

Mrs. Jeannette Wilson was honored on her birthday by members of the Rollettes Club last week at a meeting held in the home of Mrs. Debbie Bettorf, 1619 Spruce St. During the evening, games were played and the hostess awarded prizes to Mrs. Mary Ann Buttons, Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Betty Brooks. Mrs. Bettorf served a variety of Mexican foods after the games to those named and to Mesdames Edith Wofford, Reatha Radebel, Helen Warfield, Joyce Walier, Cvenie Tinsley, Diana Wilson and Sharon Jackson. Mrs. Brooks will hold the next meeting in her home, 2313 E. 23rd St.

Marriage of Rolfe and Pocahontas.

Business With His Father-In-Law...

□ Her main fame in history came from the day she threw herself across the bared head of Captain John Smith and prevented her father, the mighty Indian ruler, Powhatan, from bashing his brains out.

But Pocahontas was to have a larger, if less publicized, role in the development of America. After Smith returned to England, the Indian maid married a young settler named John Rolfe.

Powhatan took his son-in-law into the business and had him taught the Indian secrets of growing tobacco. Rolfe improved the tobacco strain by importing milder seeds from the West Indies. Suddenly, Virginia tobacco was the rage of the European markets.

The rush to grow the golden leaf brought settlers by the thousands, pushed back the wilderness and hastened the development of Virginia and the American Colonies.

Pocahontas and Powhatan? They were sculpted in wood and placed in front of thousands of tobacco shops.

Increased transit authority for Baer

The Bi-State Development Agency's Board of Commissioners Thursday approved a plan to reorganize the agency's staff and to seek more flexibility and coordination.

The plan eliminated several positions which were being duplicated under the executive director and under the general manager, according to the agency's acting transit manager, James Kendrick.

Formerly, Bi-State Executive Director Robert J. Baer and the Transit System's General Manager James E. Terry reported to the board as equals. Both had positions under them for financial control, intergovernmental affairs, community relations and equal employment policy programs.

Not all of the positions were filled, but all were authorized, Kendrick said.

The executive director also was responsible for direct supervision of those filling posts not directly under the general manager and, as a result, had an "awkward number of people—eight to 10—reporting to him."

The reorganization abolishes the general manager post, the controller, the financial officer, the community relations officer and the operations administrator post. The financial officer and community relations officer posts had been vacant but were about to be filled. The executive director will have four primary executives reporting to him: director of transit, director of special projects, director of administration and finance and the internal auditor.

The director of transit replaces the former transit general manager post from which Terry was fired last spring due, in part, to confusion and conflict over the scope of his duties.

The new transit director will be responsible for transportation, maintenance and scheduling functions of the Bi-State Transit System.

All fiscal matters, program development, personnel and marketing functions will be the responsibility of the new director of administration and finance.

The internal auditor will function as "another check and balance to assure that the people get everything they deserve," according to Kendrick.

The internal auditor, in addition to reviewing financial records, will be responsible for reviewing programs periodically to assure they are functioning properly. He also change "inertia" and a "lack of clearly defined goals, lack of communications resulting in little coordination between departments, absence of accountability" and other problems.

The reorganization came as an outgrowth of several studies of Bi-State by the accounting firm of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. and of studies by Kendrick.

The results of those studies were reviewed by Baer, who suggested reorganization to the board in a critical analysis of the present structure. He cited coordination, "resistance to change" and a "lack of clearly defined goals, lack of communications resulting in little coordination between departments, absence of accountability" and other problems.

Educators honor Sen. Vadalabene

State Sen. Sam M. Vadalabene has been honored at a joint meeting of the Illinois Association of Superintendents of Area Educational Service Regions and the Illinois Office of Education for his efforts in behalf of educational development in Illinois.

At the opening of the formal ceremonies of the meeting, Boyd R. Bucher of Joliet, president of the Association of Superintendents of Area Service Regions, presented Vadalabene with a citation which read:

"In recognition of your legislative achievements in support of Educational Service Regions during the spring session of the 1975 General Assembly."

"I'm deeply grateful for this expression of recognition," Vadalabene said in accepting the citation. "You understand perhaps much better than I that efforts to help causes like this often go unrewarded."

"So just let me speak for a minute as a private citizen and say how grateful I am to all of you—the members of the staff of the Office of Education and the superintendents of educational service regions—for all that you do for the development of young people."

"You have shown your devotion to everyone in the state and I am glad to have had the chance to assist you in your great work."

Two color television sets, a tape player, speakers, tapes, a new bicycle, two older bicycles, four mini-bikes, a coin collection, gun case and a .22 caliber rifle and 20-gauge shotgun were taken. Also a half of beef and to chickens were stolen from the deep freeze.

Department status for state veterans agency

Gov. Dan Walker has written the director of the Illinois Veterans Commission assuring him that bills authorizing veterans scholarships and department status for the veterans agency will be signed, it was announced Friday.

Walker wrote John Houlihan, IVC director, prior to leaving for vacation.

"I support H.B. 858, which transfers the granting of veterans scholarships from the Scholarship Commission to the Veterans Commission, and H.B. 2541, which raises the Veterans Commission to full department status.

"I believe both these bills will go far toward a greater commitment on the part of the state to veterans, and will improve services to them."

Soccer players accept Netherlands invitation

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, St. Louis University and Quincy College, whose soccer teams have consistently been in the front rank of American college soccer powers, have accepted invitations to take part in two international amateur youth tournaments to be played in Amsterdam, The Netherlands, in the first three weeks of August.

Bob Guelker, athletic director and varsity soccer coach at SIUE, made the announcement. He added, "The tournaments and the trip have been sanctioned by the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) office and the United States Soccer Football Federation."

The invitation to the Cougars, Bills and Hawks was tendered by the Royal Netherlands Football Association.

It will be an international meet, explained Guelker. "In addition to SIUE, St. Louis U. and Quincy, schools from Canada and Venezuela, plus those from Holland, have already accepted invitations."

The two youth tournaments will be divided into age groups of 15 to 17 and 18 to 21.

It will not be the first foreign trip for the three schools.

Last season, Quincy (Ill.) College, which won the NAIA national championship, took part in a pre-season tour of Israel. The St. Louis Billikens, during the same time, toured South America.

Two years ago, the Cougars of SIUE traveled to England and Ireland for a pre-season

Year in and year out, the three schools are regularly ranked in the top 10 U.S. soccer teams.

The three teams will fly to Holland in the same plane, which is scheduled to leave St. Louis Sunday, Aug. 3. They will return on Aug. 21.

Guelker will take both his varsity and junior varsity on the trip, while St. Louis U. and Quincy College will be represented by their varsities. This will permit the Cougar kickers to play in both age group tournaments.

A big factor in making the trips financially possible is the plan to house and board the players while in Holland with Dutch families, Guelker said.

WORDS OF ENCOURAGEMENT are given to Phillip Johns of Canton, Ill., (97P) by his wife Pam each week during the American Motorcycle Association-sanctioned racing program held Tuesdays at Tri-City Speedway. Mrs. Johns is seen often in the pits, helping her husband prepare his cycle for a race and standing ready to offer soothing words afterward if he doesn't fare well. She is one of many wives who accompany their husbands on the Midwest motorcycle racing circuit.

Wallaces win at Speedway

The Wallace family of Arnold, Mo., is making stock car racing at Tri-City Speedway a family affair, with top honors in both the late model division going to Russ Wallace and sportsman class competition being captured this season by Mike and Gary Wallace.

On Saturday night, Russ captured his heat race and placed second in the trophy dash behind victor Sandy Anderson of St. Louis, before piloting his late model to its seventh feature race win of the season. Bob Miner was second, Pat King third, Gene Melloway fourth and Roger Grab fifth.

Miner was victorious in the second heat race, and Don Carter won the semifinal event.

In sportsman competition, Gary Wallace, Russ' brother, led the double-o feature race from start to finish, with Granite Cityan Rod Bailey, Rick Woody and Jack Yates following him across the finish line.

He earlier had won the consolation event, and his nephew, Mike, placed fourth in the first heat race, won by Woody. Chuck Milam of Stanton won the second heat race.

The two stock car divisions will compete again at Tri-City Speedway this coming Saturday night, but first the American Motorcycle Association-sanctioned short-track riders will compete at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in their weekly racing program.

It is the first time two schools have tied in the annual event. Each center compiled a total of 33 points in the track and field events for miles, midgets and juniors, whose ages ranged from 6 years to 11-and-12-year olds. Events included hurdles, relay races, ball throwing, jumping, sack races and dashes.

Team totals and the position of finish included:

Tournament's title contest this evening

The championship contest of the Illinois Amateur Softball Association Men's Class AA District tournament at Worthen Park will be resolved today with Victory Tavern playing Sports Club at eight o'clock.

Victory, which was attempting a sweep in its second double-elimination tournament title, lost its first game Thursday after nine straight tourney victories.

The loss was to tonight's opponent in a championship bracket semifinal contest.

Victory Tavern then moved back into contention for the tournament title with a win Thursday over Millie and Mickey's in the losers' bracket.

Five of the six participating teams earned the right to advance to a state Class AA tournament at Rock Island July 24 to Aug. 3.

A losers' bracket contest Thursday between Millie and Mickey's and American Legion Post 30 decided the five state entries from here when the former defeated the Legion 8-7.

Advancing to the state tournament are Millie and Mickey's, My Old School, Croatian Home One, Victory Tavern and Sports Club.

North Legion stars bow 3-2

The District 22 American Legion Baseball League's all-star contest at Cahokia yesterday ended with a 3-2 victory by South over the North squad.

South overcame a 2-0 deficit to deadlock the contest in the ninth inning, forcing the game into an extra frame.

South garnered the deciding run when Ron Harten of St. Louis got an infield hit, Greg McNair, also of St. Louis, later sent him to third on a sacrifice bunt, and then a third went over an infielder's head.

The winning team was comprised of players from Cahokia, East St. Louis, Belleville, Collinsville, Fairview Heights and O'Fallon.

The North All-Star team utilized four hurlers in losing—Bob Schmidt of Alton, Paul Evans of Post 113, Kirk Champion of Post 435 and Bill Dickerson of Post 435. Between the four, only three hits were collected by South.

North garnered a run in the second inning when Edwardsville's Bill Stottle tripled and Post 435's Billy Carr singled.

In the eighth, Jim Burkhardt of Edwardsville reached base on an error, advanced on Champion's hit.

5-4 contest decides title

The Granite City Kiwanis were edged 5-4 in a championship game Sunday by the Bridgeton (Mo.) Spartans in the Juvenile Division Baseball Tournament sponsored by the Granite City Park District.

The Kiwanis worked their way to the title game by beating Family Inn, Highland, 5-1 Saturday evening.

In the tournament opener Saturday morning, the Kiwanis beat the Bridgeton Braves 6-3. The other Granite City team in the tournament, the Elks, lost its opener to Family Inn 1-0. The team later lost in the consolation bracket, 3-2 to the Bridgeton Braves.

In the Atom Division, Community Office Products won the championship game over the Eagles, 5-1. Winning pitcher was Bobby Dietrich. Both teams are from Granite City.

The Granite City Cougars breezed past Cahokia Knights of Columbus 11-5 in the consolation bracket. Tim Watson was the winning pitcher.

Rain postpones hole-in-one meet

The Breakfast Kiwanis Club postponed its annual "Hole-in-one" tournament, scheduled at Arlington Golf club over the weekend, due to heavy rains and muddy grounds.

E. Ray Grisham, chairman of the event, said the activity will be rescheduled in September, with the dates to be announced later.

Tickets purchased for the July 19 and 20 weekend will be honored when the event is rescheduled.

Braves combine shutout pitching, timely hit barrage

The Granite City Braves won three key Central Illinois Traveler League games and the weekend with timely hitting and sharp pitching.

John Lakin tossed a four hit Friday as the Braves edged East St. Louis 2-0.

In going the distance to raise his season mark to 4-3, Lakin showed consistent control, walking one while striking out seven. The big right-hander was never in serious trouble.

The Braves went on top in the second inning as Tom Manogian drew the first of three consecutive walks by the East St. Louis hurler.

Manogian scored on Don Stanton's sacrifice fly to centerfield.

An insurance run for the Braves came in the third. Mike Clark drew a pass, went to second on Randy Smith's sacrifice bunt and scored on Paul Evans' hit.

Yesterday, the Braves swept a doubleheader from Highland 5-1 and 10-0 behind back-to-back two-hitters by Mike Hankins and Tim Kirksey.

The Braves gave the visitors a run in the top of the first on an error and two walks but then settled down to shut out Highland for the rest of the day.

The Granite Cityans took a 2-1 lead in the first as Mike Clark reached on an error and stole second. Randy Smith doubled to send Clark across and then scored on John Larkin's single.

In the third, Mike Hankins, Jim Jackson and Jim Cedar singled.

Ed Prazma singled and stole second to lead off the Braves' fourth. Brian Sikes' hit sent him home.

Hankins was safe on a fielder's choice, stole second and scored on Jackson's single.

In picking up his fourth win without a loss, Hankins allowed a single in the second and one in the seventh.

Mercer wins 7-1 after 3-2 setback

Mercer's baseball nine increased its Illinois Inter-City League record to 7-10 yesterday in splitting a doubleheader at Troy, losing 3-2 and winning 7-1. Troy now has an 8-6 record.

Mercer enjoyed a 2-1 lead in the first contest going into the bottom of the sixth inning.

Troy collected its game total of four hits off hurler Mark Boone to score a run in each of the sixth and seventh innings.

The local squad put a lone run across in the second inning as Bill Campbell singled, stole second, advanced on a bad throw to second on a pickoff attempt, and scored on Bob Shipley's hit.

Jack Scarborough, who collected three of Mercer's nine hits, tripled in the sixth and dashed home on Bob Scott's single.

In winning the second contest, John Piechocinski pitched a three-hitter, one hit being a solo homer in the sixth inning.

"WAIT AND SEE," says Camille Bischof of Granite City (3204 Erin Drive), as she struggles to blow the largest possible bubble with her bubble gum for the benefit of a roving photographer. A junior elementary

30th anniversary for Roderick's restaurant

The nation's bicentennial spans 200 years of history. While far from two centuries old, a Granite City business also is preparing an anniversary celebration, and many of its patrons are applauding it for the milestone that has been reached.

A local couple on Wednesday will mark its 30th year in the restaurant business and it will be a family affair, as the two sons, Jerry and Ronald, have been with them almost since they started the business.

Oliver Roderick, better known as "Ollie," and his wife, Theresa, have been owners of their business at 2723 E. 24th St. since they bought a combination confectionery and bar (now solely a restaurant) from N. V. Pinney and began business on July 25, 1942.

Jerry was three years of age and Ronald was five and it was only a few years before they began helping out.

The Rodericks moved to Granite City July 1, 1952, from Tiff, Mo., a small town in Washington County, about 12 miles from Camp Sunner, the local Boy Scout camp.

"I was a driver for the Tastee Biscuit Company and they wanted to make me a supervisor and that just did not appeal to me," Roderick recalls.

"The confectionery was on my route and Mr. Pinney wanted to sell it. I had been saving my money, so I bought it."

"I did away with the confectionery and operated for a time strictly as a bar."

"When they started building out Kirkpatrick Homes in the late 1940s, the workmen would stop in for a beer and they kept nagging at me to put in some food, as there was no place to eat in the area."

"Well, I started with ham and cheese sandwiches, and in the winter I would make bean soup, goulash and turtle mulligan. Everything was 50 cents a bowl."

"In 1952, my wife and I bought the house next door (2721 E. 24th). We were living in what is now our restaurant kitchen."

In 1962, Rodericks went completely out of the bar business and into a restaurant operation, with cafeteria service at noon and table service at night. In the late 1960s, they changed to strictly cafeteria style.

When Jerry Roderick was asked why he and his brother decided to go into the restaurant business with the parents, he commented, "I don't think we ever made a decision. It was just something Ron and I grew up with. It was a natural transition."

The oldest restaurant is noted for home-made pastries baked by Mrs. Roderick. Her cobblers, cakes and pies are quickly "gobbled up."

"I don't know if our customers come in for my cooking or Theresa's pastries," Ollie Roderick said proudly.

The restaurant which seats 102 people, is clean and nicely decorated inside. It serves between 500 and 700 people a day, with the Roderick clan knowing about 90 per cent of the customers by name.

Noted for providing large portions and tasty food, Ollie Roderick said, "The only thing here that we go in for is just plain home cooking."

"We just got back from vacation and stopped in a lot of restaurants and they all are over the course of an entire year.

"I am troubled to learn that, rather than paying out on the basis of the approved appropriation amount, the staff intends to pay out distributive aid claims according to the amount of the appropriation passed by the Assembly until the approved appropriation amount is exhausted."

"By its intended course of action, the Illinois Office of Education would undoubtedly leave school districts suddenly without money before the end of the year and would be forcing closings. This result is avoidable, and the law requires that it be avoided. The Office of Education can and must avoid it."

In the letters to Lindberg and Dixon, Gov. Walker said, "The law requires that transfers from the General Revenue Fund to the Common School Fund and payments out of the Common School Fund be made in such a manner that 1-12 of the approved appropriation amount be transferred and paid in each of the months August through May and 1-6 be transferred and paid in June. That means that each payment must be reduced proportionately below the amount passed by the General Assembly."

"I respectfully suggest that, in the discharge of your respective duties, you take such actions as may be necessary to insure that transfers and payments of distributive aid to schools are made in accordance with the law."

"The committee is now waiting for a local plan to be submitted so that smaller local projects may be started now to relieve some of the drainage problems."

"Lock and Dam No. 26 replacement was discussed and local citizens have been urged to attend the impact hearing on this project at the Jefferson Hotel at 1:30 p.m. today."

"The Illinois Prevention and Control Committee, chaired by Warren Decatur, met as a follow-up on the bicycle safety program — the free show held at Washington Theater recently, attended by 700 youngsters."

Registration is held for bicycles in an attempt to reduce theft over the entire area. The necessity for enforcement of bicycle traffic safety laws is stressed.

"Service clubs and each of the cities will be contacted in an effort to erect signs advising bicyclists that they must observe the same traffic laws as cars."

"They must ride with the traffic, not against it. And they must observe all stop signs and traffic signals. C. C. MacMillan will coordinate this effort," Reiske concluded.

Barr will be next chief circuit judge

It was announced Friday by Chief Judge Fred P. Schuman that Joseph J. Barr has been elected to assume the duties of chief judge of the Third Judicial Circuit.

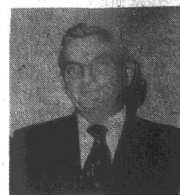

Judge Barr's tenure as chief judge is scheduled to begin Sept. 1.

The Third Judicial Circuit is composed of Madison and Bond Counties. The post of chief judge of the circuit assumes administrative as well as judicial duties for the courts of the circuit. The chief judge is elected by a vote of the circuit judges.

Circuit Judge Joseph J. Barr was born on Oct. 31, 1919, in Alton. He attended Marquette High School in Alton.

Judge Barr attended the University of Notre Dame in Indiana and received the AB and LL.B. degrees in 1942. He was admitted to the Illinois Bar in February 1946.

He and his wife reside at 613 Payne in Wood River. Prior to his appointment to the bench, Judge Barr was city attorney for the City of Wood River, village attorney for Roxana and an assistant state's attorney for Madison County. He was probate judge from 1950 until 1957, when he became a circuit judge, the position he presently holds.

Judge Barr is a member of the American Bar Association, Illinois State Bar Association and Madison County Bar Association.

DWI program expected soon

A program that reportedly has been successful in St. Louis county in preventing repeat cases of driving while intoxicated (DWI) may be instituted in Madison County in the near future, according to James Monahan.

Monahan, program director for the Madison County Council on Alcoholism and Drug Dependency, and Dave Hutchinson, program coordinator, spoke to the Optimist club at the YMCA Thursday afternoon.

He explained that a person charged with DWI may be given the option of going before a judge or attending four consecutive evening classes designed to educate the offender.

Purpose is to identify those persons with a serious problem and those who had simply "one too many" so that dangerous drinking and driving can be separated, the club was told.

The council has applied for a grant from the Illinois Department of Transportation to fund the program in this county.

At the end of the course, the judge is notified that the offender has satisfactorily completed the program and is told whether the staff believes the person is or is not a problem drinker.

Monahan said that, in that three years, there have been 320 fatal automobile accidents in this county, and 50 per cent of these are believed to be directly traceable to alcohol.

He further reported that of those noted in cases related to alcohol, 38 per cent had previous DWI arrests.

The DWI program, according to the speaker, may be operational by Sept. 1 in this area.

Madison County judges and the state's attorney are working on how to establish legal referrals.

This Thursday, Carl Rantl, general manager and secretary of the Tri-City Regional Port District, will be the guest speaker.

Venice woman hurt, charged

When police at 1 a.m. today answered a family disturbance call, officers said Mrs. Young was placed inside a Venice police car. She then climbed out a window of the car and tried to run away, police said. Mrs. Young was caught by police and taken to police headquarters where she allegedly refused to give any booking information and again tried to flee.

After being placed in a cell, Mrs. Young told the desk clerk she wanted to go to the hospital.

Rain Thursday cuts ozone level in area

Unprecedented rain in this area Thursday afternoon washed away ozone in the air which had reached a level high enough to cause an ozone advisory to be issued for the second consecutive day.

The ozone advisory is the lowest step in a five-step warning system that informs residents of increasing levels of ozone in the air. Hot, stagnant air allows the ozone level to build.

Ozone is a form of oxygen which can become toxic in concentrated amounts. An advisory is called when the level reaches 75 one-hundredth part for each one million parts of air.

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency in Collinsville called the advisory when the level Thursday reached .072 parts per million about 1 p.m. The advisory pertained only to the Illinois portion of the St. Louis metropolitan area.

The rain washed through the area a short time later and the accompanying winds blew the ozone concentration from the area. Officially, the Quad-City area received only .35 of an inch of rain, as measured by the U.S. Corps of Engineers at the Chain of Rocks Locks, but several sections reported much heavier rainfall.

Some Mitchell residents with rain gathering devices measured the rainfall there at up to two inches.

The rainfall was scattered throughout the St. Louis area, some portions receiving heavy rain and golfball-sized hail which broke some windows, and other areas receiving barely enough rain to wet the ground.

Thursday's rainfall brought the total for the first 18 days of this month to 1.83 inches. That figure is dominated by the heavy rains here July 6 and 7, with 1.55 inches and .35 inch, respectively. The only other rainfall recorded this month was .06 inch on July 14.

Normal rainfall for July is 3.20 inches.

Smith reports earnings; 1 of 2 GM standard car frame suppliers

A. O. Smith Corporation earned $1,415,000, or 39 cents per share, with sales of $148,440,000 in the second quarter, L.B. Smith, chairman and chief executive officer, announced Thursday.

Smith said that while the company has recovered from an unprofitable first quarter, earnings were still below the second quarter of last year when the company earned $2,438,000, or 50 cents per share on sales of $151,625,000.

In the first six months of the year, the company had sales of $281,115,000 and earnings of $1,082,000, or 22 cents per share. The company had sales of $286,325,000 and earnings of $1,548,000, or 32 cents per share in the first six months of 1974.

Three of the company's major markets have been severely hurt by the recession, Smith said. On the plus side were products operating units whose products are sold to the petroleum market.

Both sales and profits at the Motor Systems Division were well ahead of the second quarter last year. The division, which is the world's largest manufacturer of petroleum metering systems, is benefiting from the increasing worldwide requirement for accurate measurement of petroleum products.

The Reinforced Plastics division of A. O. Smith-Inland Inc., an affiliate, which manufactures fiberglass reinforced plastic pipe used in chemical and industrial as well as petroleum applications, also had improved results for the quarter.

The biggest negative impact in the second quarter was a substantial loss at A. O. Smith Harvestore Products, Inc., a subsidiary. The loss was caused by both weaknesses in the market and heavy start-up costs at the subsidiary's new 400,000-square-foot manufacturing plant in DeKalb, Ill.

Smith said that livestock and dairy farmers—hurt by a poor 1974 harvest, increasing costs, lower prices for their products, less availability of credit from local lending institutions—and confused about federal government farm planning—have not been making large capital expenditures.

This has caused the first major prolonged sales decline for the company's livestock feeding systems.

Profits in the Automotive Division held about level with a year ago, despite a drop in unit volume, Smith said. The generally depressed market for passenger cars, as well as less demand for trucks, is affecting results.

Smith did say that the Automotive Division was selected as one of two suppliers of frames for the 1977 standard size General Motors passenger car. In previous years, there were three vendors. The slowdown in commercial construction, particularly disruptions in projects already under way, plus increasing costs, caused Armour Elevator Company, a subsidiary, to operate at a loss in the second quarter.

The low level of construction activity has also hurt the Electric Motor Division in the second quarter, Smith said.

Sales of A. O. Smith motors, used primarily in air conditioning, refrigeration and home water systems, were off significantly from a year ago. The drop in sales caused the division to operate at a loss for the quarter, Smith said.

Results at the Consumer Products Division, which manufactures commercial and residential water heating products, were ahead of the same period last year, Smith said. Much of the division's residential water heater production is sold to the replacement market which has held up well so far this year. Besides operating results, Smith said one other factor affecting the second quarter was higher interest costs than of year ago caused by a higher level of short-term debt.

A. O. Smith, with its subsidiaries, is a widely diversified manufacturer of electric motors, motor systems, auto and truck frames, agricultural feed storage and handling systems, water heating equipment, elevators and other products. One of its auto frame plants is in Granite City.

Additional high school monitors are proposed

Dale Rea, assistant to the superintendent, submitted a request to the Granite City school board last week to create a position for an additional campus monitor at South High School and a position for one at North High School.

Although there are no funds available through the "man-power" program to furnish the salaries, to be in the $7,200 to $8,500 range, approval for such positions by the board would expedite hiring the needed personnel when funds became available, it was related.

Board members agreed to the recommendation and the administration was authorized to make necessary application to Title VI of the federal man-power program for people who are qualified for the positions.

A report received from James Diamond, principal of South High School, in relation to a campus monitor at South—utilized for the first time last year—said many incidents were reduced due to the monitor's effectiveness.

He said fewer people were on the campus and in halls when classes were in session, and the monitor also enforced the school policy concerning students' use of autos on campus, as well as checking boys' locker rooms at the gym following their reports.

Due to increased enrollment in drafting for the 1975-76 year at North High School, Gilbert Wainsley, principal, asked the board members to create a faculty position for a new drafting teacher. The proposal was approved.

A resource teacher program outlined by Vasil Etkimoff and Mrs. R. Dew at previous meeting was accepted by the board for the special education program.

The state has recommended excluding the gifted program from the resource plan for the present. Continued efforts to provide such a program for the gifted will be made by the administration, it was noted at the board session.

We used to read the comic page for laughs, but it seems that nowadays the whole paper is one big joke. For example, last Wednesday, the Journal carried a story by their "food editor" (big joke) saying that Bananas were the best fruit buy. "Even at 29¢ per lb." the story goes, "your best value per lb. is bananas." Well, those of you who shop Schermers know that we have been selling bananas for 10¢ per lb. for the past three weeks. Oh yes, then the food Editor goes on, "the good old days of 10¢ bananas are gone". Evidently this Editor never heard of Schermers. That's when we started to laugh.

We are starting the third week of Top Value Stamps. The transition has been very smooth and almost everyone likes the new program. We say almost because we have to tell the truth and admit that a few customers have told us that they liked the old program better; but they are so few in number that we feel confident that we did make the right move. The amazing thing is how many customers had OLD TOP VALUE BOOKS lying in a drawer.

We made a "buy" on beef loins. Trimmed loins cut into steaks, wrapped, frozen for $1.19 is the same low price that we were advertising back in February. We have 25 loins to sell at this price. When they are gone the sale is over. A word to the wise is sufficient.

Rise in tax relief to senior citizens

Gov. Dan Walker said last week the state has paid more than $5 million to senior citizens under the senior citizens tax relief bill signed in April.

He said the amounts of tax relief checks mailed to about 72,000 senior citizens 65 years or older averaged almost $80 per person.

"More than $18 million in tax relief checks from both the senior citizen tax relief program and the 'circuit breaker' property tax relief program have been processed and mailed so far this year," he said. "This is $13 million more than at the comparable period last year."

"I stress these figures so that everyone will know that both senior citizens tax relief programs will continue," he commented.

"Some people are spreading false rumors that the six per cent state budget reduction means the end of the senior citizen tax relief. That is absolutely untrue. The tax relief program for senior citizens will continue."

"I will take every step necessary to continue such programs for senior citizens—even if it means making other reductions."

"We have to control spending. We have to continue senior citizens tax relief. And we have to protect all the people of Illinois from a tax increase. It will take hard work. But it will be done."

Walker said senior and disabled property taxpayers are receiving an average of $259 in tax relief this year, an increase of about $100 over the amount received last year.

He said part of this increase is due to a bill signed last September that reduced the level of property taxes a person must pay before becoming eligible for tax relief. That measure increased the average property tax relief grants by $30 to $180.

May steel shipments lowest in 3½ years

In May, domestic steel shipments dropped to their lowest point since the end of 1971.

According to the American Iron and Steel Institute, mills in this country sent their customers 6,294,000 tons of steel products during the month. This was a drop of 561,000 tons from April.

"It was also the smallest one-month steel shipment total since December 1971, when consumers received 6,104,000 tons of steel."

Through the first five months of this year, shipments reached 35,332,000 tons—down 12,708,000 tons from the 48,040,000 tons shipped in the same period of last year.

Domestic steel industry employment dropped for the seventh month in a row during May, reaching its lowest level in 39 months; 460,000 persons were engaged in the production and marketing of steel that month.

This was a decline of 10,500 persons from April's 470,500 employment figure and the lowest total since February 1972, when it was 452,300.

In May, steelmakers paid out $614,311,000 in wages and salaries, bringing the total of such payments through the first five months of 1975 to $3,230,336,000.

Total employment costs per hour for hourly employees were $10.31 in May 1975, compared with $9.08 average for 1974, including the costs of employee benefits such as pensions, insurance, supplemental unemployment benefits, the non-payroll portion of savings and vacation plan costs and legally required payroll taxes.

Intensified instruction in science

A new program of intensive study and accelerated learning will be available to junior and senior high school students in this region.

The program will be sponsored by Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville with a $19,979 grant awarded to the university by the Office of Education.

The project is called "A National Demonstration Project Developing Science Awareness and Capability in Low Income Students. Its purpose is to encourage minority students to achieve proficiency in the sciences."

The project director, Emil F. Jason, assistant vice-president for special programs and minority affairs at SIUE, said, "Too few minority students pursue careers in the fields of science and engineering. Too many students come to SIUE with inappropriate skills in these areas."

"By going into the high schools, we propose to better prepare the students who plan to go to college and to encourage those who are seeking a science or engineering career."

Although algebra, calculus, biology, chemistry, physics and engineering will be emphasized, language skills such as reading, writing and speaking also will be taught. According to Jason, proficiency in these skills is essential to successful completion of any college endeavor.

Presently, high school teachers and university professors are involved in a "learning situation" to prepare them for the program which will begin in the fall. About 300 to 400 students are expected to be screened for the program by counselors from East St. Louis and SIUE.

Jason said, "Students selected will be those who have displayed academic achievement and who are interested in science and a college education, but any student who feels he can benefit from the program may attend."

NAMEOKI PRESBYTERIAN BIBLE SCHOOL JULY 31

The Rev. Don Pierson, pastor of Nameoki United Presbyterian Church, announced vacation Bible school will begin at the church at 9 a.m. Thursday, July 31.

Church organist Mrs. Valerie Stevens has completed special plans for the summer session, he said. All children in the area are invited to attend.

Record rise in state spending

In a statement accompanying the comptroller's monthly fiscal report for July, State Comptroller George W. Lindberg said, "Illinois has just completed a very difficult year financially."

Simply stated, the state spent $138 million more from the general funds than it received in taxes and from other sources.

"The deficit arose as a result of spending $613 million more from the general funds than in the previous fiscal year."

"This increase is of historic proportions, as the largest single-year increase previously recorded was in fiscal year 1970 following enactment of the state income tax."

"Unlike the federal government, Illinois has only three alternatives when spending is outstripping revenues: the state must cut spending to meet revenues by cutting services and increasing efficiency; or increase revenues through increasing taxes; or, taking a page from the history of New York City, it can undertake borrowing."

"As comptroller, it is my position that the only viable alternative is to reduce spending. The governor is taking the first step toward cutting spending by reducing appropriations sent to him by the General Assembly."

"But, I emphasize that this is only the first step. The success of his avowed policy to reduce the spending he asked for last March can, and will, be measured monthly."

"In the last analysis it is the governor who bears the responsibility for the state's financial well-being, for it is the agencies under his jurisdiction that spend the major portion of the state's general funds," Lindberg said.

4-H members honored by county for achievements

Members of the 58'ters 4-H Club who participated in Madison County achievement days at Edwardsville last week returned with 17 "A" ratings, five "B" ratings and one "C" rating, according to Mrs. Joanne Spencer, club leader.

Those who received "A" awards in the competition and the subjects of their entries included:

Debbie Aerne, crocheting II; Kelly Ault, "Let's Start Cooking"; Susan Basarich, "Milk and Eggs in Your Meals"; Shannon Bushue, "You Learn to Bake"; Laura Dyer, "You and Your Clothes"; Cynthia Goeller, cooking; Lisa Griffey, "Learning to Sew"; Michelle Jenness, crocheting I; Tracey Johnson, cooking; Donna Jones, cooking; Dina Long, "International Foods" and crocheting I; Denise Reading, baking; Janet Scannell, "Learning to Sew"; Susan Sigitt, milk and eggs in meals; Mary Jo Welle, baking.

Helen Goeller earned a "C" for "Learning to Sew I" and "B" ratings went to Laura Jenness and Debbie Reading for "Let's Start Cooking"; Earle Schilling, cooking; and "Learning to Sew II"; and Mary Anne Welle, cooking.

Representing the club at the Madison County Fair dress review on Tuesday will be Lisa Griffey, a nine-year-old member enrolled in the Learning to Sew I category.

according to Mrs. Spencer.

Others who will take part in the fair will include Michelle Jenness, who received a rating of excellent for a crocheted patch in earlier competition.

Ceramic projects will be shown at the event by Patty and Susan Basarich, Helen Goeller, Rhonda Reish and Janet and Lisa Scannell; the latter will display her stitching project.

Mrs. Spencer reports that two tours are being planned for the club members to take place in August. They will be announced at the Aug. 7 meeting at St. John United Church of Christ.

General Steel net income is down slightly

General Steel Industries had net income for the three months ended June 30 of $1,152,000, or 46 cents per share of common stock, compared with $1,381,000, or 54 cents per share, in the second quarter of 1974, it was announced Thursday.

Sales in the second quarter this year were $15,559,000 compared with $15,004,000 in the period ended last year.

GSI's net income for the first half of 1975 was $2,244,000, or 89 cents per share of common stock, compared with $2,158,000, or 86 cents per share, in the first half of 1974.

Results for the six months of 1975 include an approximate 13-cent gain on disposal of the company's interest in a joint venture in Europe. Sales for the first six months were $28,700,000 compared with $28,338,000 in first half of 1974.

The income statements for both years include tax credits representing partial utilization of the company's tax loss carry-forwards.

GSI's sales and operations for the second quarter and first six months of 1974 were described as being about as expected.

The economic slowdown and continuing pressures of inflation, shortages and higher costs of fuel and petroleum-related products and supplies accounted for lower second quarter earnings.

As indicated in earlier reports to shareholders this year, these pressures are working against equalling last year's performance as a whole.

A sharp drop in production levels in the basic steel industry, the principal market for GSI's National Roll Division, also is having an adverse effect.

It was announced that GSI's indebtedness has been reduced to $14,935,000 from $15,585,000 at the time of the first quarter report to shareholders.

The backlog of orders for GSI's five manufacturing divisions was $26,848,000 on June 30, compared with $22,725,000 a year earlier.

GSI's present operating units are: Ludlow-Saylor Wire Cloth, Flex-O-Lite, Standard Pipeprotection and GSI Engineering, all headquartered in the St. Louis area; National Roll near Pittsburgh; and the Simplicity Engineering Company, a subsidiary, at Durand, Mich.

GSI's corporate office moved recently to the St. Louis County National Bank Building, 11 South Meramec, Clayton.

JULY BRIDE. Mrs. Charles J. Bonfanti, whose wedding was solemnized at Our Lady Queen of Peace Catholic Church in Wichita Falls, Tex. She is the former Miss Faith Elizabeth Crawford, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Crawford of Burkburnett, Tex., formerly of Granite City.

Faith Crawford becomes Mrs. Charles Bonfanti

Miss Faith Elizabeth Crawford, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Crawford, 508 E. Third St., Burkburnett, Tex., formerly of Granite City, and Charles Joseph Bonfanti, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carrado Bonfanti of Danvers, Mass., were married on July 12 at 2 p.m. at Our Lady Queen of Peace Catholic Church, Wichita Falls, Tex.

The Rev. Thomas performed a double ring ceremony before an altar adorned with bouquets of yellow and white mums. Plateau baskets holding white gladiolus were placed on each side of the altar.

David Lindemann sang the Lord's Prayer, "O Perfect Love" and "Wedding Prayer," accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Albert Lindemann.

Escorted down the white carpeted aisle and given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white crepe made with an overlay of fragile lace enhanced with pearls and sequins.

Long leg-of-mutton sleeves, cuffed with a crepe band, were set in a fitted bodice, featuring a high crepe collar. A semi-princess style skirt fell softly from the Empire waistline and formed a chapel train.

Her illusion fingertip veil, trimmed with lace motifs, was secured to a lace Juliet cap. She held a nosegay of all-white roses, carnations, statice and baby's breath, centered in a garland of lace with white pearl streamers.

Honor attendant Miss Debbie Johnson and bridesmaid Miss Stephanie Crawford, both of Burkburnett, wore identical princess-style gowns. Created in yellow floral sheer, their dresses had Empire waistlines and high cape collars.

They carried cascade bouquets of yellow pompons and white baby's breath.

The flower girl, Cheryl Lewis, was dressed in a yellow frock, edged at the hemline with lace. She carried a basket of rose petals. Martin Barber served as ringbearer.

Attending the groom as best man was his brother Mike Bonfanti. Roy Cheney was groomsmen. Ushers included Scott and Elza "Butch" Brokaw, uncles of the bride, and Tony Hatfield served as altar boy. All are from Granite City.

A rehearsal dinner was given by the groom's parents in the Trade Winds Motel banquet room. Guests attended a reception held in the church parish hall immediately following the ceremony. Miss Anna Crawford, a sister of the bride, attended the guest book and Mrs. Dorothy Hatfield of Granite City, Miss Terry Allen of Burkburnett and Mrs. Rose Marie Newberry, a sister of the groom, assisted at the reception.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Crawford chose a formal gown in green. The groom's mother, Mrs. Bonfanti, appeared in a long coral colored dress. Both wore orchid corsages.

The bride attended Burkburnett High School and her husband graduated from Danvers High School. He is now employed for Western Electric Co., in Danvers, Mass., where the couple is now residing after a wedding trip to Canada.

Attending the wedding from Granite City were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brokaw and Mr. and Mrs. David Crawford; and also Eddie and Scott Brokaw, Mrs. Dorothy Hatfield and children, Tony and Christine; Mr. and Mrs. Dave Kaminski and children, David and Karen; Mr. and Mrs. Mike Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lancaster and Mr. and Mrs. William Murray.

Other out-of-town guests included the groom's parents and brother, Michael; and Mr. and Mrs. John Newberry and children, John and Mary Ellen, all of Danvers; Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Brokaw and son, Mark, Boulder, Colo.; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hewitt, Sterling, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Estes, Tyler, Tex.; Mrs. Lewis Freeman and daughter, Kristi, and Mrs. Vivian Hewitt of Georgia.

State delinquent tax collection procedures need review

The tragic death of Madison Recreation Director John H. Haynes following accusations at an Illinois Revenue Department conference has brought to mind a previous incident regarding that department.

We had written the department on an entirely unrelated matter in the early 1960s. It was a trivial point, in which we sought to see if we were interpreting a statistical report correctly.

The letter didn't require more than a few minutes time of a lower-echelon clerk at the department, but instead the revenue director called us personally to chat about it. It seemed a bit of over-reaction, with the director apparently extremely concerned about his public image. Later, he was dismissed, convicted and imprisoned. Long before the episode involving Mr. Haynes, the department's method of collecting delinquent accounts through use of roving collectors appeared to many people to be somewhat unusual.

The question was whether such an informal approach to the payment and recording of taxes provided sufficient safeguards, both for the state government and individual collectors' reputations.

Specifics of the Haynes case are not being aired by the Revenue Department, but one wonders whether the system itself may be the party that should be blamed. A review of collection practices, with the goal of improving and modernizing them, appears to be needed.

Many retired Quad-Cityans performing voluntary services

The secret of happiness, it has been said, is to turn outward from one's self, devoting most of a person's time and attention to the welfare of others rather than himself.

Quad-Cityans aged 60 and over are testing the truth of this concept in growing numbers these days, through the Retired Senior Volunteer Program operated by the Tri-City Area YMCA and Belleville Area

College. As outlined in Thursday's Press-Record, a number of them report deriving a satisfying feeling of being useful and helpful and needed.

Such examples of volunteerism here underscore the basic decency and their deep regard for other people's well being.

Conference on women spotlighted diverse goals, opinions

Press-Record Washington Bureau—The United Nations World Conference on Women at Mexico City has revealed more disagreement than harmony among women's rights advocates—even within delegations from the same country.

There is no reason to dismiss the conference as an exercise in futility. It has illuminated the great chasm that separates the goals women are trying to achieve in different parts of the world and their concepts of feminism as a social or political cause.

The conference revealed a pattern now familiar from earlier U.N. meetings on food, population, the environment and other issues considered world-wide in scope.

The rhetoric at Mexico City suggested that women from the Third World and women from the more advanced industrial nations were looking at the problems of women through opposite ends of a telescope.

The typical delegate from the United States or Western Europe might talk about equal pay for equal work, more equitable divorce laws, privileges in obtaining credit or entering contracts, and other discriminatory practices embedded in law or custom.

Many women from developing countries dismissed these subjects as "luxury" issues. Some of them are not even allowed to vote or own property.

Millions of women have no access to education. The question of whether they can pursue business or professional careers on an equal footing with men is far down the line.

Women from the Third World may have greater grievances against the cards they are dealt in male-dominated societies. But they were pointing the U. N. conference down a questionable track, advocating major upheavals in the world's economic and social structure in order to put things right.

This, unfortunately, is the position taken by Third World delegations at U.N. conferences on such problems as food distribution and economic development. On those latter problems, the best course for developing countries, is to take advantage of the technology and investment that the advanced countries can provide through mutually beneficial trade relations, rather than trying to polarize the have and have not nations.

The economic systems of advanced nations can be their models for success. Women in a woefully second-class status in the Third World have models in the advanced countries of how feminism can achieve reasonable goals at a reasonable pace.

As impatient as some of the more militant American feminists may be, the fact is that sex discrimination is falling away in the advanced countries under the pressures of constitutional processes, the public conscience and common sense.

Traditions assigning stereotyped roles to women are slow to change, even in enlightened societies, perhaps because some of them are dictated by nature rather than human will. That they can be changed is abundantly evident in the history of Western civilization in the last century.

There has been extraordinary progress in recognizing the injustice and self-defeating nature of excluding women from the productive life in political, economic and professional life they are fully able to share with men. This striving process should be one of our exports to the Third World.

New Constitution--how well does it work?

Four years ago this summer Illinois began functioning under a new Constitution replacing a document which had provided the framework for state government since pioneer days.

Replacing the Constitution of 1870 with a more modern Constitution represented years of effort on the part of many devoted persons. It required almost nine months of deliberation at the 1969-70 Constitutional Convention to produce a proposed new Constitution.

Then a big selling job was required to win its approval in a statewide referendum on Dec. 15, 1970. It was defeated Downstate, attracting only 49.9 per cent of the vote, but won adoption in the area of a 63.1 per cent favorable vote in Cook County.

The big factor in the victory was support of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley's powerful Democratic machine. Daley was president of the Convention because of its provision establishing home rule for Chicago, a long-sought goal.

In addition to the Constitution, four separate propositions were submitted to the voters. These would have provided for the end of cumulative voting for House members and their election from single member districts, an appellate system for judges, banning of the death penalty, and lowering of the voting age from 21 to 18.

All four side proposals were soundly defeated.

Major changes in the new Constitution provide:

— Election of all state officers in off-year elections, instead of in presidential years, starting in 1976;

— Elimination of the office of state auditor and replacement by an elected state comptroller;
— Election of the governor and lieutenant governor as a team, like the president and vice president;
— Establishment of home rule for cities, greatly expanded their independence and powers;
— Creation of a state board of elections to supervise elections in Illinois;

Adoption of a new and modern Bill of Rights;

— Annual sessions of the legislature, and — The governor was granted emergency veto power.

In addition, much of the cumbersome language of the old Constitution was replaced with simpler and clearer wording.

The 1870 Constitution required 30 pages in the Blue Book; that of 1970, 31.

The new Constitution began its fifth year of existence July 1. What impact has it had in its first four years of testing?

2 legislative leaders question its value

SPRINGFIELD — Two legislative leaders, who have held leadership posts under both the old and new Illinois legislatures, have some major reservations about the 1970 version.

Both Senate President Cecil Partee, D-Chicago, and Senate Minority Leader William Harris, R-Pontiac, welcome some changes in the legislative process and in state government in general brought about by the new Constitution, but they doubt that it has lived up to its promise predicted for it by its strongest advocates.

"The impact has not been worth the time and money we put into it," says Partee.

"I'm not sure," says Harris. "I have a deep concern about this tremendous volume of legislation, but I don't know whether this is because of the new Constitution or the general broadening we have had in recent years."

Both have doubts about the new Constitution's specific provision for the holding of annual sessions of the legislature.

Comments Partee:

"I'm not entirely certain it is a good idea. We don't have enough time to go back home to the district and talk to the people. Now we have more written correspondence. It is better to talk to the people, definitely feel that the second year (even-numbered years) should be limited strictly to legislative and revenue matters."

Comments Harris:

"I'm not sure that annual sessions are such a good idea. Other states, Indiana for one, still operate under the biennial system and there seems to be no difference between them and us as to accomplishing. Certainly annual budgeting hasn't proven as effective as its advocates professed."

Harris believes that the best way to improve the legislative process would be to reduce the size of the legislature by cutting House members from 177 to 120 and electing members from single member districts.

"I would like to see a Senate of 60 members (currently 58) and a House of 120 with single member districts within a Senate district," Harris says. "This way the legislators would be more responsible to their voters. Now what we have is a hazy area where most voters can't identify their legislators."

Like Partee, Harris is doubtful whether the time, cost and effort that went into the Constitutional Convention and ensuing referendum were really worth it. He feels that might have been accomplished through submission to the voters of a series of separate amendments.

"I don't believe in doing all at one time," Harris states. "I believe in improving by amendment action. I don't think you can do it all at one time."

Harris cites as one major improvement in the new Constitution, the removal of the lieutenant governor as the Senate's presiding officer.

"This was a good thing," he says. "Now the legislature is clearly identified as being on its own. The legislative and executive branches are clearly separated."

Partee sees merit in changing the election of the governor and other state officers from presidential election years to the off-year.

"This is good," he says. "People can focus more on state government and candidates without being distracted by the national issuues."

One change in the new Constitution that disturbs Partee is the amendatory veto power granted to the governor. He feels this is an infringement on the lawmaking power of the legislature.

"The amendatory veto power which gives the governor power to substantially revise bills is very distressing to me," Partee states. "We tried to change it."

He refers to a proposal placed on the 1970 ballot which would have taken this power from the governor. But voters failed to approve it.

Both Harris and Partee have some strong reservations about the home rule articles in the new Constitution, hailed by some as one of the most significant changes from the old 1870 document.

Harris questions the provision limiting home rule to cities with populations of more than 25,000.

"What happens when you have a city of 25,001 and one person moves out of town?" he asks. "This is a matter of arbitrariness which must inevitably lead to rejection by the courts. If it is good, then extend it to all, whether you are talking about one person or 35 million."

Partee believes the home rule article was weakened because the Constitution under the state a number of preemptive powers which the legislature by a three-fifths vote can have some authority previously granted to the cities.

One of these involves the power to license for regulation. In 1974 the legislature passed 30 bills to preempt home rule authority over a number of occupations, professions and businesses.

"The city of Chicago isn't interested in licensing doctors or lawyers," Partee says. "But it should have the power to license such positions as barbers in order to assure that satisfactory health standards are met."

Neither Partee nor Harris sees any immediate prospect of major changes in the new Constitution. They are prepared to live with it, but are far from convinced that it has brought about the far-reaching improvements in state government which those who worked for a new Constitution predicted that it would.

Delegate says it was well worth the effort

SPRINGFIELD — Maurice W. Scott, who served as a delegate to the 1970 Illinois Constitutional Convention, believes four years later that the new Constitution it produced was well worth the effort.

However, he does have reservations about some provisions in it and believes that some years of testing will be required before an objective judgment as to its worth and effectiveness can be rendered.

Scott concedes that the document is far from perfect and fails to go as far as it should have in many areas. But he feels it represents a good, practical compromise of a broad range of differing views.

"In many, many matters individual articles there were compromises," Scott says. "Anytime you want to get anything in deliberative bodies, you have to make compromises. In the things I was interested in there was great improvement."

"In changing a Constitution that has been in existence for 100 years, you can't make changes of a revolutionary nature," Scott adds. "Illinois is a conservative state."

Scott speaks with excellent credentials. His years as executive vice president of the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois have provided him with a background in the workings of state and local government that few can match. He was regarded as one of the most active and constructive participants at the 1970 convention.

Has the new Constitution been good for Illinois? "Yes," he answers, "in that it is much better than the old Constitution under which we were operating."

Scott cites two general areas in which the new Constitution has proved its worth.

— The Bill of Rights has been improved upon in that it brought the article into modern times.

— The new Constitution has made it possible to make estate and local taxation systems more equitable.

As is his nature, Scott moves quickly to specifics. "It was not possible under the old Constitution to get rid of the regressive nature of the sales tax on food, medicine and clothing," he notes. "Under the new Constitution this is possible because the sales tax can be selective. In the past the courts said that such legislation violated the uniformity provision of the old Constitution."

Bills to lift the sales tax from food and medicine still have not passed the legislature.

Scott points out that the new Constitution has opened up avenues for tax relief for the elderly. It gave the legislature the right to enact a homestead exemption law, something that was impossible under the pre-1970 Constitution.

In another area of taxation the legislature under the new Constitution, has been able to remove inequities where taxing districts overlap county boundaries. These often involve school districts, sanitary districts and community colleges.

This, Scott explains, means the overall tax cost is distributed fairly among all property owners.

Another advantage to local governments under the new Constitution is that it permits various governments to cooperate in constructing joint facilities which can be used by citizens in all the areas involved. Separate governments on their own would usually lack the tax revenue to finance such an undertaking.

But Scott is not completely sold on the home rule in the new Constitution.

"Home rule bothers me a little," he says. "The General Assembly is going to have to act someday to set limitations on debt above the free debt incurring powers."

Scott concedes that cities so far have been generally cautious in exercising their new taxing powers, but warns that "there has begun to be a little creeping into the wild blue yonder."

He believes that the lack of a debt limitation is the main reason voters in some 10 counties have decisively rejected home rule in local referendums.

Scott expresses himself as "a little dubious" about the article changing the election of the governor and other state officers from the presidential to off-year election years, but "went along" with it because "the General Assembly might focus more voter attention on the state offices."

He also cites as an improvement the provision that requires candidates for governor and lieutenant governor to run jointly for president and vice president.

"One thing which we were weak on is that we didn't spell out the duties of the lieutenant governor," Scott says. "We should have spelled out that he should have been chairman of the Senate Probation Commission and have ombudsman duties. I don't think the lieutenant governor should just be sitting around to take his place if someone or other happened to the governor."

Scott also believes the Constitutional Convention fell short in the legislative field.

"We should have spelled out the particulars on annual sessions," he says. "The seven-year session should be shorter. I think people are getting tired of the long annual sessions we're having. The people would like to see the legislators back in the district more, keeping in touch."

He feels the legislative sessions in even-numbered years should be limited to budget and other fiscal matters.

Scott would have liked to have seen more sweeping changes in the legislative area such as an end to cumulative voting for House members, establishment of single member House districts, and reduction of the House to fewer members.

But he admits that practical politics made placing such items in the main body of the proposed Constitution impossible. The proposal to abolish cumulative voting was placed before the voters as one of four separate propositions and was soundly defeated.

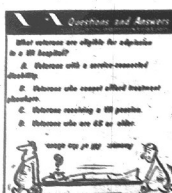

Although the procedure for amending the Constitution has been made much simpler in the new version, Scott expects there will be few changes in the years immediately ahead because "when something is new there is a reluctance to change it."

"I think that in about four years more amendments will be passed by the General Assembly before submission to the people," he adds.

All in all Scott is pleased with having participated in drafting of the new Constitution. To sum up, he says:

"When I was in Washington recently I found that many other states which are preparing to hold constitutional conventions are using Illinois as a model. They said to me, 'You are the state to use in your state Constitution in making changes, but still protecting the rights of the people.' That makes me feel good."

Facilities are available for recitals

To the Editor:

Our official board, the Session of the Nameoki Presbyterian Church, has always cooperated with persons and organizations that serve our community.

We would like to go on record that this is extended to music teachers having difficulty securing facilities for recitals.

Naturally, there is some need for opening and closing the building, necessitating a modest fee in this instance of $20. No charge is made for non-profit civic and cultural groups using our facilities.

Excessive cut in health service funds

To the Editor:

The Illinois Association for Mental Health is a statewide citizens organization directed at changing public attitudes and awareness about mental and emotional illness.

Its 38 chapters, located throughout the state, engage in public education and information programs aimed at promoting public understanding about mental illness and its treatment.

The state organization maintains a highly developed legislative program which monitors the activities of the Department of Mental Health and treatment of the mentally ill on the state and community level.

The Governor's reduction of the budget by an additional $13 million cannot help but have even more serious implications for those patients who will be served in those areas cut back.

While we genuinely recognize the need for fiscal integrity and responsibility in state government, we believe that a more selective approach in choosing which budgets to cut is the most prudent course to follow.

The implication of budget reductions in the area of human services, particularly for those who are unable to provide for themselves, is evident.

We further express concern over the effect of a recent memorandum from the Bureau of Mental Health which requires the Department of Mental Health to hold an additional two per cent of its monies from the general revenue fund in "allotment reserve" pending an improvement in the state's financial condition.

This would have the effect of further restricting the appropriation by another $7.3 million.

The cuts made by the legislature and the governor, coupled with the additional 2 per cent restriction, place the total amount of dollars available for mental health services at an unacceptably low level.

In addition, a 2 per cent reduction in certain grants for community services cuts the monies available for mental health programs provided at the community level.

We pledge that the Mental Health Association will mount a sustained "grassroots" campaign to override the governor's cuts and restore the monies that have been cut, when the legislature reconvenes in the fall.

"Hey, you guys trying to put us out of business?"

Fest's music fans also prove they enjoy food

"In the year we had the big crowds, the Mississippi River Festival was the largest single retail outlet for Cracker Jacks in the nation," remarked William Crabb, director of Food Service.

It is true that a lot of Cracker Jacks are consumed at the MRF. In fact, on an average night, approximately 1,000 boxfuls of the surprising treat are consumed.

But, of course, Cracker Jacks are consumed at the MRF. In fact, on an average night, approximately 1,000 boxfuls of the surprising treat are consumed.

Food Service also sells a variety of other favorites. At an average concert, 300 hamburgers, 400 to 500 hot dogs, 1,300 bags of popcorn, 4,000 to 5,000 caramel apples and 2,000 to 3,000 sodas are served.

Crabb noted that the amount of refreshments consumed "depends on the type of group we have and how much the people have to spend."

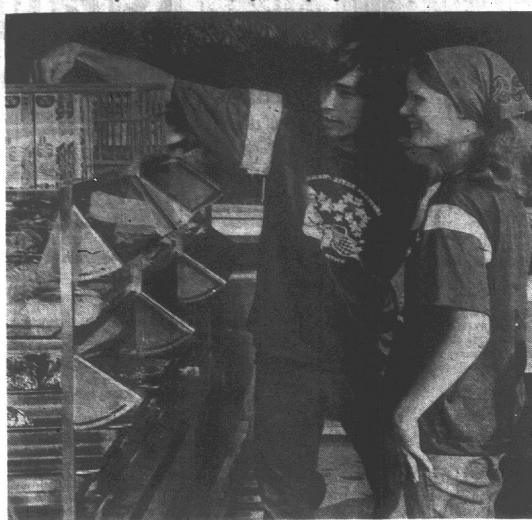

"People are creatures of habit," remarked Crabb. "We can tell you just how many watermelon per 1,000 people we will sell. . . . It comes true time after time."

Crabb cited the Chicago concert last season as having the hungriest crowd. "At that concert, we sold 11,000 sodas, 2,500 bags of popcorn, 3,000 Cracker Jacks, 1,100 bags of peanuts and 800 hot dogs."

There are four points of sale at the MRF. There are two main food stations where people can pick up prepared food. At these stations, Cracker Jacks and peanuts, the beverage stations are located nearest the stage.

About 60 students are employed by Food Service to work at the MRF concessions. Working in shift rotation, at an average concert 50 students will be involved.

"Many students work each summer during their college career," Crabb said. He noted that working the concessions at the MRF "provides the students with a valuable learning and training experience. It trains them for work in other food services."

CONCESSION PREPARATIONS. Ray Martin, student manager of MRF concessions, does some last minute instructing before the beginning of a concert.

"It is not one of the most glamorous jobs. . . they really work hard," Crabb believes. "The only compensation besides the monetary one is business experience."

Ray Martin, a physical education major, is this year's student manager. "As the first one here when we start out, I have to be sure all the equipment is ready and everything is set up. My primary job is more or less as a buffer between management and students," he related.

At the concerts, there is a manager from Food Service, a student manager, an assistant manager and four concession supervisors. "The first few concerts are the biggest hassle. . . just getting the people to recognize what their jobs are," said Martin. He says that telling 50 people what to do is "quite a job."

"Toward the middle and end of summer, the workers know what they are supposed to be doing," he has found.

Although the work is hard, the workers enjoy it. Ed McDaniel, concession supervisor at one of the beverage stations, noted that he likes it. "You get to meet a lot of people and they get to see people when they are uninhibited—out having a ball. I enjoy watching people have fun. I enjoy the music, and it gives me a chance to work with people."

Sweet Adelines seek local singers

As part of its current membership drive, the Collinsville Chapter of Sweet Adelines will hold a special rehearsal Wednesday evening at the Tri-Cities Area YMCA in Granite City.

The practice session will start at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday, and all women who like to sing are cordially invited to attend. Mrs. Jo Beatty of Granite City, public relations chairman, said today.

Membership in the organization is open to women over the age of 18 years. No formal music training is required.

The chapter usually rehearses in Collinsville, but is anxious to recruit new singers from the Quad-City area and is staging its practice session here to encourage prospective members to attend. Mrs. Beatty explained.

Several members of the Sweet Adelines chapter reside in Madison and Granite City, she noted. Further information concerning Wednesday's program or the group's activities in general may be obtained from Mrs. Beatty at 931-2438.

The Sweet Adelines, Inc., is an organization of women devoted to the protection of four-part barbershop style singing. The international group has over 25,000 members in 600 chapters in Canada, the Panama Canal Zone and the United States.

Amvets plan family day Saturday

Amvets Post 51 and Auxiliary will hold a family day Saturday at the Post Home, 5100 Lakeview Drive, to commemorate the signing of the Amvets' national charter in Washington, D.C. Mrs. Jackie Petras, auxiliary chairman, and Adam Petras, Post 51 commander, announced this week.

All Amvet families are being urged to attend the festivities, the officers said.

At last week's business meeting, Amvet members authorized a $10 donation to the Multiple Sclerosis fund and $25 to the Boy Scouts.

Floyd Tucker reported three citations and plaques were received from Illinois State Amvets' headquarters for 100 per cent membership renewal. Petras said five bids have been submitted to the post to construct the proposed new building.

Four career Marines from the East St. Louis and Granite City recruiting offices joined Amvets Steve Conkovich, John Logan, Richard Hanson, Tom McGowan, Rex Manning and Petras on the unit's two duma float entered in the Shrine's parade, it was reported.

At the auxiliary's business session, Mrs. Petras announced the first place state trophy was presented the local unit for the newspaper publicity at the state convention.

Second place awards were accepted for scrapbook and a photo contest and a citation was received for 98 per cent renewal of membership.

Credited with earning the awards were Mrs. Agnes Conkovich, public relations; Mrs. Charlene Sanders, photos; Mrs. Trudy McGowan, scrapbook and Mrs. Glenda Brockman, membership. Mrs. Betty Wilkins was named Post Auxiliary Mother of the Year.

DUQUOIN GROUP TO SING AT SUBURBAN BAPTIST

The "1975 Purification Act," a group of senior high school and college-age young people from the First Baptist Church, DuQuoin, Ill., will present a program at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Suburban Baptist Church, 3500 St. Clair Ave., according to the pastor, the Rev. Bob Worley.

The choir began singing together six months ago and this summer they will travel over 2,500 miles, sing in five states, and perform in churches, community programs and at prisons.

The Rev. Worley said the public is invited to attend the special evening program.

ILL. 159 AT COTTONWOOD RD., EDWARDSVILLE, ILLINOIS 62025

(618) 656-8880

THE COMPLETE HOME BUYERS GUIDE TO "COTTONWOOD COUNTRY" 813 ACRES OF THE GOOD LIFE, GREEN GRASS, TREES, CLEAR SKY, OPEN SPACE AND FINE HOMES.

This Special Edition of our 'YELLOW HAMMER' is a complete step by step guide to selecting and financing a new home in one of the Cottonwood Communities of Fine Homes . . .

The information that you will find here is specifically designed to help you in making what could, and should, be one of the most important, enjoyable, and profitable, decisions of your entire life—the decision about—YOUR HOME!

Buying a home is a lot more than just buying a house and the piece of land it is situated upon. It is an investment that not only places a roof over your head, but it provides security and happiness for you and your family. And best of all it's a hedge against inflation. Of all the things you will need to buy in the coming years, YOUR HOME is the one item that "they" can't raise the price of. It is a proven financial investment from which you hope to gain in the event that you decide to move and sell your property.

(Manufactured items have a general history of depreciation, because more can be manufactured. Land was created, so it has a general history of appreciation because of its increasing scarcity.)

All "Investments" have a value placed on them which is directly determined by a total of all of the benefits (present & future) to be derived from ownership.

Here are a few of the items that help contribute to VALUE that you should consider:

LOCATION AND COMMUNITY. Your home should be convenient to your work, your recreational and cultural interests, to needed services and conveniences. Cottonwood's rural setting is near to everything the St. Louis Metropolitan area has to offer because of its unique closeness to Interstates 270, 70, and 55.

CITY WATER, SEWERS, AND MODERN UTILITIES. A must to insure your satisfaction and to keep property values high. Cottonwood is an All-Electric community with city water and sewers, and all utilities are underground to give an unobstructed view of the gently rolling landscape.

RECREATIONAL FACILITIES. The "Good Life" needs recreation. Cottonwood's Total Community concept allows many acres of permanent wood lands for parks, ponds and lakes for fishing and ice skating, swimming pools, tennis and game facilities, and some tranquilizing nature trails. Plus, once again, our unique location puts you close to large recreation centers on both sides of the river and we're only minutes away from Major League Sports.

QUALITY OF PLANNING, DESIGN AND CONSTRUCTION. The Cottonwood Companies have set the standards that others must follow. The concern and integrity is evident in every undertaking. It is Cottonwood Credo. A few moments of your time as you page through this guide should point out the desire to provide the best possible living environment—the total environment—that people yearn for.

Cottonwood Country Exemplifies The Pride and History of a Community with "ROOTS"... A Metro East "Must."

A strong feeling of community identity prevails in Metro East. People from Alton think of themselves as Altonians, Belleville residents as Bellevillites, while those from Granite City look upon themselves as Granite Citizens. The schools and the central business districts, acting as focal points for individual and community thoughts and activities, helped to develop and today maintain this sense of local identity. The residents of these communities are kept informed about their communities by locally-oriented newspapers which in turn goes a long way towards developing a cohesive community. As in most small to moderate settlements, the community is an active element in the social structure within Metro East.

This feeling of belonging also comes from the proud, and in several instances, extensive history of the communities in Metro East. Cahokia is the oldest permanent European settlement in the Midwest, predating St. Louis by more than fifty years. Alton was an early rival of St. Louis itself. Belleville and Edwardsville, settled in the early 1800's were developing communities when most of St. Louis was still farmland. East St. Louis and later the Tri-Cities and the Wood River area were established during the period of industrialization of the American Bottoms around the turn of the century. The continuity of life... some would call it "roots"... is part of the life of the residents of Metro East and Cottonwood.

The Planning Goals Of The Cottonwood Companies

"In COTTONWOOD COUNTRY, we believe that "Nature brings out the best in us, so we try to bring out the best in nature." We're gentle with the land and the trees and the grass... roads curve with the slopes, and all utilities are underground. We preserve parks and open space. Then we've added ponds and trees that add to the blend. Seventy acres of redbud, dogwood, crabapple and shade trees from our own nurseries wait to be gently placed into the permanent landscape.

Then we put together what we call a "People Place." We believe that homes are for people and everything in a development plan should say so... homes that look like they belong on the land... not just shelter from the sun and the rain, but a place to LIVE... a place to be natural... to be snug and comfortable and secure... a place that feels like home.

The Master Development Plan

COTTONWOOD COUNTRY begins with countryside that's clean and new and unspoiled, high on the bluffs... with rolling meadow fringed with woods... with sunshine, fresh air, and a warm welcome.

The Master Plan shows how this lovely topography has been preserved and carefully planned into a "Total Community" concept... where the functions blend naturally... where the architectural styling is varied, yet unified... and the open space acreage is preserved for all the residents to enjoy now. The Covenants and Restrictions that are recorded with the plan insure that these precious sections of "natural earth" will be preserved for generations to come.

This master planning also allows for differing life styles and economic requirements... and offers a variety of living and working environments... homes... townhouses... apartments... blended with open space, parks, walks, lakes and garden space.

Plus shopping, recreation, office and commercial space, medical and banking facilities, all blended conveniently... into "The Complete Community."

THE RETURN OF COTTONWOOD STATION

In the early part of the century, COTTONWOOD STATION was well known, and the YELLOW HAMMER was an affectionate term used to describe the electric streetcar that carried travelers back and forth to St. Louis. The term, we're told, was somewhat descriptive of the riding comfort offered.

Until 1918, COTTONWOOD STATION was a streetcar stop for the YELLOW HAMMER, located between Edwardsville and Glen Carbon where old Troy Road and Glen Carbon Road intersect with Illinois Highway 159. It got its name from a big old cottonwood tree at that corner, now replaced with a substantial walnut. Until 1918, that is, because COTTONWOOD STATION met its end in that year, in sacrifice to a rather noble purpose. Here's how it happened:

February of 1918 saw a particularly terrible blizzard. Old timers describe it as the worst they ever saw, in severity of wind and depth of snow. In the evening of the big blizzard, the last car of the evening, coming into Edwardsville about 5:30, was stalled right in front of old COTTONWOOD STATION. The blizzard had blown the power lines down.

Otto Kriege's farmhouse was nearby. But the occupants of the car didn't know that, and had a real predicament on their hands... caught in a blizzard, with very little fuel for the potbelly stove... and, of course, no food. They survived the night by simply burning up COTTONWOOD STATION. Board by board in the potbelly stove it was consumed... until in the morning, it was no more.

Early in the morning, when the snow somewhat abated, the early light in the Kriege farmhouse was seen, and a tough traveler fought his way to the house, seeking aid. Lena and Otto Kriege mobilized immediately. Otto prepared a box wagon filled with straw and he and his horses went stomping through the huge drifts to begin the rescue of the passengers. Otto's brother, Elmer, walking from his own home a half mile away to help, froze the tips of his ears. Lena had some trouble with breakfast because the bacon hanging in the smokehouse was frozen solid. It was afternoon before things got going again... power restored and snow plowed. But the story had a happy ending because of the gracious aid of the Kriege family, and the warmth in the boards of COTTONWOOD STATION.

However, COTTONWOOD STATION ceased to exist... for awhile... although residents of the vicinity still to this day call the corner "Cottonwood." And until 1929, the YELLOW HAMMER still stopped at "Cottonwood."

THE COTTONWOOD COMPANIES have been formed to develop over 800 acres of land, including the corner on which the old Cottonwood Station stood.

So, Cottonwood Station has returned in a fresh new way, and will be the "Stop that's HOME" for another generation.

WELCOME TO COTTONWOOD COUNTRY— TO THE BEST OF GOOD LIVING IN AMERICA'S HISTORIC HEARTLAND. TO THE AREA'S FIRST ECOLOGICALLY PLANNED DEVELOPMENT!

To the best of two worlds . . . where the cosmopolitan convenience of America's 10th largest city, and the small town flavor of the single best satellite location meet for you to enjoy.

We're the area's first "Total Community" . . . 813 acres master planned, presenting a variety of well-designed residential and commercial offerings . . . almost everything you need, close to home.

All offered by people who CARE about your living and working surroundings.

Being a locally owned company, the people of Cottonwood are deeply rooted in the community, and bring some special concerns to their task:

THEY CARE . . . about people, about the environment and about professionalism from a variety of people such as in:

Market research, to study your needs and wishes.
Land planning, for best environment, function, beauty, pride.

Architectural Design, as basic to community "character."

Construction Quality, with new home warranties.
Creative Marketing, by people interested in your viewpoint.

Excellent Financing, customized to your needs . . . a reflection of the personal attention of locally owned banks and savings institutions.

Reputable Experts in ALL other business areas . . . title insurance, engineering, accounting . . . all to show you that THEY CARE!

In accepting this special responsibility, a spokesman said, "the land use patterns that we now set will determine what life will be like for many generations to come . . . WE WANT THAT CONTRIBUTION TO BE SIGNIFICANT . . . IT'S OUR GREATEST REWARD!"

WHAT IS A PLANNED UNIT DEVELOPMENT?

A PUD . . . a Planned Unit Development, is something new in the St. Louis area, let alone Metro-East. A PUD is a fresh approach to a carefully planned "Total Community." A PUD is where you just start from scratch, take a piece of undeveloped land, then plan and develop an entire new complete community on it. The main advantages are in the care of the environment, in the long-range attractiveness of the area, a natural blending of functions, and in sensible traffic patterns. (Actually, the concept isn't new . . . our forefathers planned new towns when the country was settled, starting with a "Village Green.")

Most realistic planners say that pure "New Towns" aren't going to mean that much on the American scene . . . there are almost enough towns now. They state however, that "Modified New Towns" . . . Planned Unit Developments, that fit in between existing settlement patterns . . . are the really practical way to meet the future. Team 4, Inc. of Clayton, Missouri, land planners, when presenting COTTONWOOD'S plan to a meeting of the American Institute of Planners, declared COTTONWOOD to fall into this category . . . a Modified New Town. It's designed to blend with and take advantage of existing major cultural and social institutions already in existence, which certainly include those in St. Louis. The Urban Land Institute, a national society interested in good land use, has a new book entitled "PUDs . . . A Better Way For The Suburbs." And indeed it is "a better way."

THE GOOD LIFE IS PART OF METRO-EAST

The good life, exemplified by the advantages of small-town America and the attractions of metropolitan America, is alive, well, and thriving in the Metro-East portion of the St. Louis Region.

To most people today, however, the "good life" means more than just small town living; it also includes professional sports, major recreational facilities, first class medical services, and the variety of goods offered in large urban shopping centers. Normally, the use of such urban services is dependent upon living in a large urban complex. In most instances one thus has a choice of life—either small town living with its advantages, or metropolitan living, with its advantages. In Metro-East, one has both.

The assets of the major urban area of the Region, St. Louis City and St. Louis County, Missouri are less than thirty minutes from most of the people in Metro East. Because of the short distances and good highway transportation, much of it by interstates, Metro East residents are able to enjoy with ease the professional football or baseball in Busch Stadium and hockey in the Arena. Shopping in major department stores in the downtown portion of St. Louis or in the major outlying shopping centers, such as River Roads, Northland, Northwest, and Jamestown Mall, is common to most of the residents of Metro-East (in fact, it has been said that 25-30% of the sales in the large downtown department stores are produced by people from Illinois). Forest Park, with the zoo, art museum and Municipal Opera, is handy as well as are the medical facilities around Forest Park.

In Metro East, one does have small town AND big city advantages.

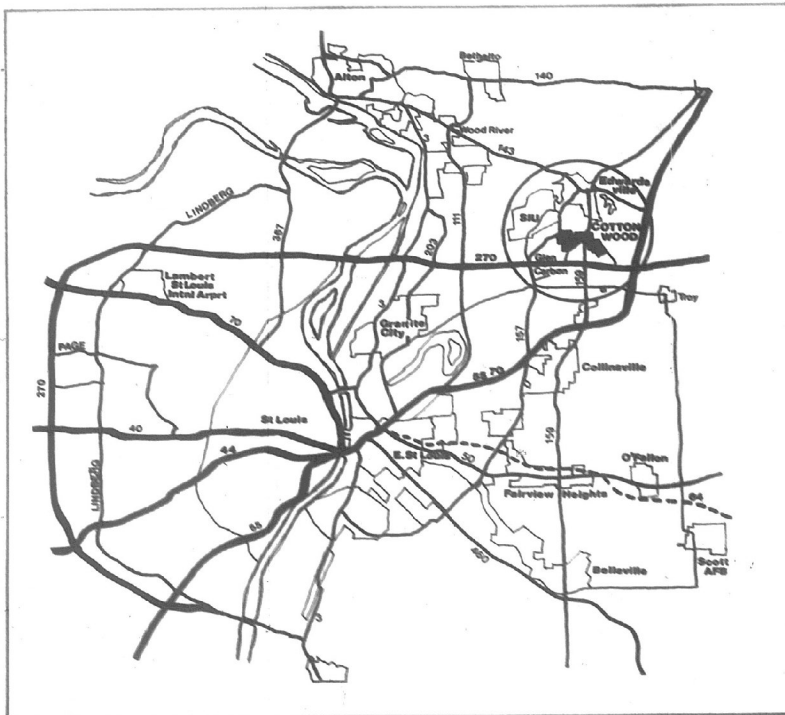

COTTONWOOD AND THE METROPOLITAN AREA

The Community of Edwardsville-Glen Carbon is generally regarded as one of the finest in the area. The map shows the area features better than words can describe, but don't miss these unique facts: . . . a superb location . . . wonderful convenience of 3 nearby interstates and other good highways . . . a college town . . . a county seat . . . a new community hospital . . . good recreation . . . excellent schools and churches . . . AND WARM FRIENDLY PEOPLE.

Present residents mention the unique advantage of the dual relationship, via convenient interstates, to both downtown and to the Airport . . . No other location in the St. Louis area has this unique feature . . . within driving distance of virtually every major employer in the St. Louis area, AND with the sun at your back as you travel to and from work in the morning and evening, an annoying and uncomfortable glare is eliminated. Here are a few examples of distances that may interest you:

To Interstate 270	1.2 miles
To Interstate 55	2.3 miles
To Interstate 70	3.5 miles
To Downtown Edwardsville	2.0 miles
To SIU
(from the center of Cottonwood)	2.0 miles
To Downtown St. Louis	19.0 miles
To Lambert Airport	28.0 miles

Having Southern Illinois University located at the Western edge of the community is a benefit affording a great place for residents with children that are, or will be, continuing their education. Countless adults are using this facility to broaden their educational horizons also. The MISSISSIPPI RIVER FESTIVAL and other cultural events are special fringe benefits of this greatly desired facility.

YOU WILL FIND COMMUNITIES PRICE FROM $15,000 TO $100,000. OF RARE NATURAL BEAUTY.

COTTONWOOD STATION II & III

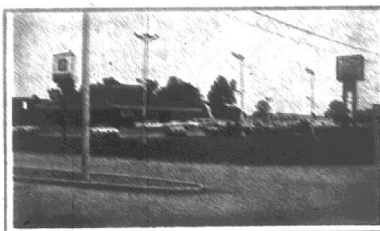

"The Station" section features homes in the $45,000 to $55,000 price range, and homesites from $8,000 to $10,500. The homes are "Country-Rustic" in character and emphasize countryside living. The new curve-linear street pattern is designed to completely eliminate all through traffic in this area. Community features include: an open space land plan with a density of less than 2 homes per acre, extensive "Common Grounds," all city services and underground utilities, a fishing pond and park. Although the homes are different, the styling is coordinated by careful planning to help insure your investment in an unusually beautiful community. A few of these custom homes were started for our inventory and qualify for the $2,000 Tax Rebate. (This is NOT a tax deduction, this IS a direct Tax Reduction)

JOIDA

Adjacent to, and overlooking "Lakewood's common grounds, Joida offers a fine custom building environment. Homesites in Joida vary from 1/3 acre to almost 1 full acre. This is a cul-de-sac land plan to provide a very safe and attractive neighborhood. Joida offers the ideal environment in which to build your own custom home. It is restricted to residential use only, provides for a minimum size of 1000 square feet of living area, and requires that all utilities be underground. Discover this area before it's too late. Only 12 homesites are still available.

KETTLE RIVER

A "Commercial Subdivision" that makes available a wide range of sizes of locations for commercial ventures. The divided island boulevard entering Kettle River is designed to serve this neighborhood amenity with the same "open-space" feeling encompassing the entire Cottonwood Community. Several businesses are already in operation, such as "Kinsey Motors" the Buick-Pontiac-Oldsmobile dealer, "Lewco Electric" and the "Bargain Barn." For the future, Kettle River has additional properties that come under multi-family zoning.

COTTONWOOD JUNCTION

Coming into reality slowly is Cottonwood Junction shopping center. The periphery of this site is being developed, carefully preserving the center for the ultimate happening, a special kind of shopping center of rustic design, built around the historic old farmstead . . . A place where shopping can be fun . . . the atmosphere warm and comfortable.

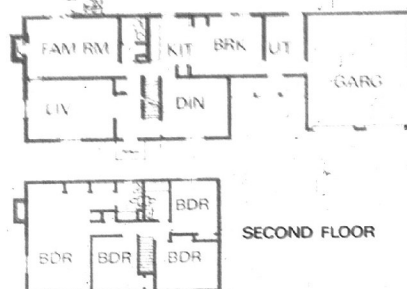

The Sports Center First phase—the Cottonwood Bowl Bowling Alleys) . . . the Whistle Stop . . . the Cottonwood Bank and Trust Company are being developed now, leading to the main event in the future.

GINGER CREEK

Custom Residences from $65,000

Ginger Creek encompasses 175 gently rolling, naturally wooded acres southwest of Edwardsville on Illinois Route 157. The new environmentally planned community will feature Luxury Single Family Homes, Towne Homes and Apartments, Recreational and Service Facilities, swimming pool, clubhouse and many acres of heavily wooded parkland with nature trails . . . all part of the total community concept planning and integrity of design and construction the Cottonwood Companies are noted for. (More details about Ginger Creek will be found in related articles on page 6.)

GINGER CREEK, TOWNE HOMES BEING DESIGNED FOR EARLY FALL OPENING

A second section of Ginger Creek is being developed around the Ginger Creek Lake. This choice section will contain a low-density townhome neighborhood. The popularity and desirability of this type of home is sweeping the nation as people find out that there is a way to enjoy extra-fine living quality without having to be concerned about maintenance of home or the surrounding grounds. And with the Towne Home concept you do own the land beneath your home. 5 years of resale history have shown that values have appreciated at a greater percentage rate in this type of home than the traditional type of home.

IN COTTONWOOD COUNTRY YOU OF FINE HOMES RANGING IN PRICE ALL SHARING 813 ACRES OF

Most people believe that good first homes are impossible to find in new construction ... Cottonwood has three communities that offer first homes—in these price ranges. $15,000 to $18,000—$25,000 to $27,000—$35,000 to $42,000.

And all are good retirement homes too ... A minimum of work and upkeep is necessary with ownership because complete lawn care is a part of the total ownership package.

In many cases these homes actually cost you less to own than renting an equivalent apartment—if you could find it! (See the discussion on buying now.)

THE VILLAGES OF COTTONWOOD

VILLAGE I "Cottonwood Village Woods" $15,000 to $18,000

According to recent newspaper headlines, the average person is being priced out of the privilege of owning their own home and lot because of a variety of reasons. Reasons such as higher wages—more costly materials—more time required for traditional construction methods—and inflation in general.

But now, quality modular construction breaks this price barrier, making it possible once again for the average person to get off of the rent receipt merry-go-round and enjoy the pride and advantages of owning their own home.

VILLAGE II "The Patio Homes" $25,000 to $27,000

The PATIO HOME is a unique combination of styling, quality and economy. It's a 6 room (3 bedrooms) home of over 1000 square feet of living space. Proven quality throughout, with a rustic contemporary styling, you will see after a brief visit inside why this "Village" is nearing the sold-out point. Just to sit alongside the swimming pool, or stroll through the 28 acre woods, is all it takes to see why it's a good place to buy.

VILLAGE FIVE "The Garden Homes" $35,000 to $42,000

Only 44 fortunate owners will locate in this private section. Bordered on 3 sides by: The Village Green Park, Lake, & Pool—The 28 Acre Heavily Forested Park—and The Village FIVE Commons. VILLAGE FIVE has been approved for financing under FHA, VA, or Conventional. THESE HOMES are fully equipped with items such as Air Conditioning, Carpeting, Dual Glass Windows, Landscaped Lots, and much, much, more.

VILLAGE III "The Apartments"

Built in a duplex configuration, these popular 1 bedroom efficiency apartments solve the problem of noise because there are no neighbors above or beneath one another. Clustered around central courtyards, each with their own patio decks, "Singles" and "Empty Nester" couples are finding them a terrific way of life. Swimming and tennis of course are part of this leisurely "Fresh-Air" community. Rentals are only $137 per month, and these apartments are available furnished or unfurnished.

COTTONWOOD TRACE

"The Townhouses"

These two bedroom two story apartment homes are sited near one of the small lake impoundments. They are in the $200 per month category and are another testimony of the "Complete Community" concept that has been followed since Day #1 at Cottonwood Station.

Which is better, owning your own home and having to pay off a mortgage of several thousand dollars over a period of two or three decades while having to be responsible for maintenance, taxes, insurance and so on—or living in an apartment and paying a measly few dollars a month for rent while somebody else has to worry about all those other things? Well, the answer is easy. Renting is obviously a much simpler, more economical way to go, right?

Nope.

IF YOU RENT		IF YOU OWN YOUR OWN HOME
Your landlord charges as much as he can get, including the high cost of construction, financing, and his profit in the amount of rent he charges.	MONTHLY COST	You pay only actual expenses
Although state income tax laws vary, you get no Federal income tax benefits of any kind.	TAX BENEFITS	Every cent you pay out in real estate taxes, plus the money that goes for interest on your mortgage may be taken as an income tax deduction.
You own nothing. The only thing you have to show for the money you pay out is a rent receipt. Even after years, you have no more legal or financial benefits than you did the day you moved in.	OWNERSHIP	You own a tangible asset. You know where every cent you pay out is going. Maintenance and improvement costs will show up in the re-sale value of your home.
As inflation forces property values up, your apartment building will go up in value. So will your rent, probably. The only one who benefits from increased property values is your landlord.	INFLATION	Through the years, real estate has been one of the best investments a person can make. In fact, over the past ten years, homes have risen in value an average of 8% a year.
Since your home belongs to somebody else, you have to abide by the rules and standards set up by your landlord. As a tenant, you have no say in establishing these rules.	FREEDOM	Since your home is your property, you can do anything you want to it. You're confined only by local laws and zoning ordinances.
You gain no equity.	EQUITY	As you decrease the principal of your mortgage, you develop more and more equity in your home.
Lucky you. You don't have to pay capital gains tax. Of course, on the other hand, you don't have any capital gains. And if you decide to buy a home later, you'll have to find the money for down payment elsewhere.	BUYING POWER	If you sell your house and buy one of equal or greater value, you obtain the capital gains deferment benefit (you may postpone tax on your profit.) Also, your equity can be used as down payment on a new home.
You have nothing to show for the years you've spent renting. Nothing.	RETIREMENT	At age 65, you can sell your home without buying another and still receive the capital gains deferment benefit. Your equity will also provide you with money for retirement.

REPRINTED FROM ST. PAUL TITLE COMPANY "WHY BUY HOME" BROCHURE.

Investing in a home—possibly the BEST money decision you can make.

Investing in a new home today is one way YOU can beat inflation.

You hear a lot of talk about inflation and the cost of living. In 1973 we experienced an average 8.8% inflation rate. But housing is a different story. Because of the extra sharp increases in land and building materials, the cost of housing has exceeded 10% for the last several years and up to 12% last year. That's far more than the general increased cost of living!

TASKER'S Buying Price	Price One Year From Today	Price Two Years From Today
$25,000	$27,500	$30,250
30,000	33,000	36,300
40,000	44,000	48,400
50,000	55,000	60,500

*Values based on 10% inflation in housing.

There are two basic economic methods to beat inflation:

First, you buy something today and use it next year—thus beating next year's higher prices. This is difficult and with a big budget item such as food—it's impractical.

Second, you buy and use today what you can sell later at a higher price. Again, this is difficult because most items we use (car, clothing, furniture) depreciate or drop in value as we use them.

Your home represents one of the best ways to beat inflation for most Americans. You can buy a new home today at today's prices, use it next year (still at today's lower payment schedule)—and sell it at an appreciated value!

Historically, housing outperforms the stock market (and its safer).

The purchase of a new home is—and has been—a most prudent way to invest dollars. Because of the above average increase in new home values, your new home does more than protect you against the rising cost of living. As the chart demonstrates, it has, over the past 10 years, provided a steeper and greater appreciation than savings accounts or the average stock market investments. Still, there's one important difference between your home as an asset and other assets you acquire for investment purposes.

Most assets for investment (stocks, bonds, etc.) don't really give you personal enjoyment until after you have sold them and you've taken the profit. With a new home, you enjoy it now. The minute you acquire it. Why postpone this enjoyment, particularly when waiting will cost you money?

Uncle Sam is on your side for a change.

The mortgage interest and property taxes you pay on your new home are deductible items when computing your federal income tax. This means that you pay less than you think for your new home.

Here's how it works:

1. Assume you buy a new home for $40,000 with a 10% down payment and a $36,000 mortgage at 8 1/2% for 30 years.
2. Your monthly payment on the mortgage will be $276.81. This payment averages during the first year to $29.40 of principal and $253.41 of interest each month.
3. Assume your property taxes are $60.00 per month. This added to your mortgage payment of $276.81 makes a total monthly outlay of $336.81.

4. Of the total outlay of $336.81, the interest of $253.41 and the property taxes of $60 are tax deductible for a total of $313.41.

5. If you are in the 25% tax bracket, your tax savings are $78.35 each month during the first year.

6. Deduct the tax savings of $78.35 from the total payment of $336.81 and your net outlay each month is reduced to $258.46.

Interest and taxes on most investments can be deducted on your income tax return. But here's another advantage that only applies to homes:

If you sell your house at a profit, this profit is tax-deferred as long as the total revenues received from the sale of your house are reinvested in a new home within 18 months.

On the other hand, interest from savings accounts and profits from stock market investments are fully taxes immediately at regular or capital gains rates—regardless of how you reinvest your profits.

Interest rates are a real bargain. That's right, even today.

First, mortgage rates have stayed close to the prime rates commercial banks charge their best and largest corporate customers. In fact, recently mortgage rates were actually below prime rates.

Which means you can borrow money to buy your home at a rate that compares favorably with what IBM and AT&T are paying for their money.

Secondly, as stated above, interest is a tax deductible item. So, no matter what your income, the effective rate you pay is less than the figure the bank charges you.

You're building equity which means cash in your pocket.

The difference between the value of your home and what you owe on it (the mortgage) is called your "equity." Since the mortgage remains constant, as the value of your home increases, your equity increases by the same amount.

This equity is an asset on your personal financial statement which you can borrow against almost anytime. Furthermore, increased equity means it is possible to "cash in" by refinancing your mortgage.

Let's assume you buy a home for $40,000 and obtain an 8 1/2% mortgage ($32,000). Suppose in 3 years, the value of your home increases to $50,000. You could refinance your home with a $40,000 mortgage, pay off the $32,000 mortgage and keep the $8,000 difference (less any refinancing charges). That's cash in YOUR pocket... and you still own your home.

One further thought. If you found it necessary to raise this $8,000, the method described above is one of the least costly ways to do so.

If you worked for this money and had to pay taxes on your earnings, you would have to earn $10,667 to net $8,000 after taxes (based on a 25% tax bracket). So your home investment and mortgage also act as an economical emergency fund should you ever need it.

Waiting for interest rates to drop costs you net cash.

Should you wait for a better interest rate? Not!

In the first place, you have no guarantee that rates will go down. They may also go up. Interest rates over the years have fluctuated month to month, but have generally moved in a steady up-trend... like everything else.

Even if they go down for a few months, you may still wind up paying more because the movement of home prices far outstrips the movement of interest rates.

Remember, while you're waiting for interest rates to go down, prices are going in the other direction.

Using the table you can easily figure out which factor would cost you more. For example, on a $24,000 mortgage your monthly principal and interest payment would be $185 if you closed the deal today at 8 1/2%. And if you waited for a possible 8%? Next year the same home would cost you $191 per month (the lower 8% interest rate on the higher price of $26,000).

The simple facts are that the rate of inflation in our economy will almost surely offset any reduction in interest rates that may occur in the next year or so, and you may never be able to buy a new home for less money than you can today.

Particularly in these times, purchasers need to have the confidence that they can handle the purchase safely and that their investment is a wise one. This is why you'll find all Cottonwood homes come with suggested financing arrangements. You don't have to use it, but it is offered as a convenience to the home buyer.

Each neighborhood within the overall community has specific types of loan information available for that particular product. In several cases, 95% or even higher ratios of loans are available. Some loans are offered that are supported by FHA insurance.

The fact that local lending institutions support these various homes with excellent financing is a reflection of an extra measure of confidence that you can rely on. Their appraisals often exceed the selling prices and certainly support them in every instance as a "Good Value Purchase" at a fair price.

Cottonwood Sales People will assist you in matching your unique needs with the Best-Possible type of mortgage loan. A loan that will enhance the value of your decision to invest in a new home in a Cottonwood community.

TAX CREDIT? REBATE? REFUND? WHAT IS THIS NEW $2,000 TAX CREDIT?

Don't misunderstand this terrific new tax law that has just been inaugurated.

Here's what it means, and here are the simple guidelines to be followed to qualify.

It means that 5% of the cost of a new house (up to a maximum of $2,000) will be deducted from your 1975 income taxes and refunded to you.

For a family that is planning on purchasing a home with a 5% total down payment, this new law simply means that they get their down payment refunded. (If the total income taxes that you owe equal LESS than the 5% rebate you are to receive, you will receive ALL of your withheld tax money back and will pay NO INCOME TAX for the year in which you purchase the home.)

Here are the guidelines from Internal Revenue necessary to qualify:

1. The residence must be a new residence, with construction started before March 26, 1975.
2. You must use it as your principal residence. (To keep out the speculators)
3. You must contract for it after March 12, 1975 and before January 1, 1976. (But the earlier you contract for it, the wider a selection you will have.) Then, you must move in before January 1, 1977.
4. If you sell the home within three years, you must buy another home. (The program is designed to stimulate home ownership, remember?)
5. If you make a profit on the sale of one home, being sold to buy the new one, that profit must be deducted from the cost of the new one before you figure your 5% refund.
6. The seller must furnish you with a certificate confirming that the home has never been occupied; that it was started prior to March 26, 1975; and that it is being sold at the lowest price at which the residence was ever offered for sale.

THE COTTONWOOD CONCEPT OF THE "TOTAL COMMUNITY"

Although we have taken a lot of care to provide exceptional residential quality in all of Cottonwood's areas of homes... the concept of the "Total Community" means there's more.

It means that you'll find almost all of the services you need and want right within the community... sometimes within walking distances... certainly only a short drive.

This includes shopping, recreation of all kinds, a religious center, medical services, financial services... perhaps even employment.

Already we have THE WHISTLE STOP (general store)... the DOCTORS' PARK... the COTTONWOOD OFFICE CENTER... the COTTONWOOD SPORTS CENTER... The COTTONWOOD BANK AND TRUST COMPANY... MADISON COUNTY FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN... a Community Center "THE WELL" sponsored by Eden United Church of Christ... a Central Park... and several retail and wholesale businesses located in KETTLE RIVER COMMERCIAL PARK. (Even the Cottonwood Balloon Port is available to serve your flying needs.)

Additional recreational facilities should follow soon, including a cinema, restaurant, and so on... and major shopping facilities are just around the corner.

All carefully planned for... integrated into the "COMPLETE COMMUNITY"... of Cottonwood Station.

COTTONWOOD SPORTS CENTER

The long-awaited Sports Center has started. Phase I... the Bowling Facility... is now underway on a 4-acre site to the north of the shopping center land. It will have 24 computerized scoring alleys, with first-class country decor. League reservations are being taken now. Phone 656-8880. The tremendous interest in the use of the bowling alleys is evident in the fact that 3/4 of the league times are already spoken for for the fall. Apparently, bowling is enjoying renewed attention as people adjust to the energy shortages by purchasing their recreation closer to home.

CHURCH BUILDS PROGRAM CENTER— "THE WELL"

The building just newly put up on Cottonwood Road is the Community Program Center being constructed by Eden United Church of Christ on five acres donated to the church by Miss Lydia Wessel whose family originally owned the land. Rev. James Mennerick is the director of the facility. He reports that the building will be used for all types of community functions and he is in the process of forming a coordinating board which will include community people. The board will have responsibility for determining community needs and developing programs to meet those needs, as well as establishing policies for the use of the building. Some activities that have been suggested are perhaps a small library with story time for children, neighborhood crafts or civic clubs, some sports activities (a ball diamond will probably be available by summer). The board will be open to all your ideas.

A pre-school (this is not day care), called "The Tree House," is already started. It is meeting at Eden Church right now and will be moved to the Program Center very soon. It meets 2 mornings a week, currently has 12 pre-schoolers enrolled, and there is room for more. Call 656-4330 for a pamphlet on the pre-school.

It takes PEOPLE to plan... to create... and to turn those plans into reality... people who CARE about their contribution.
